Manning Draft Seen in New Sacred Policy

OTTAWA (UPI)—Delegates to the Social Credit national convention today tailored a new constitution which they hoped would be a preliminary to drafting Alberta Premier E. C. Manning into the post of national party leader.

Manning, who with British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett has stayed over in the capital for the two-day top Social Credit gathering, has made no open declaration of his availability for the post of national leader for the federal general election which the Socreds expect early in 1962.

But party sources have been passing the word that it "is not inconceivable" that the Alberta premier would respond favorably to a strong movement to draft him.

New Leader Would Need Free Hand

Manning himself spoke briefly against the proposal to tie the hands of any new leader on policy matters. He pointed out that new issues emerged and old issues changed so rapidly these days that it would be impossible for a leader to function effectively if he had to consult either a Dominion-wide executive or an infrequently meeting convention for instructions in policy.

E. G. Hansell of Calgary, a veteran of the federal parliament and now a member of the Alberta Legislature, told the convention:

"Upon the calibre of leader you are going to have depend all your chances of success in the national field. The win of the Conservatives in 1958 was a Diefenbaker sweep—nothing else. Unless you can get a man of calibre to similarly fire the public imagination—and a man of that calibre will not have his hands tied in policy statements—you will get nowhere."

Manning's applause to the Hansell statement was noticeable, and the delegates immediately voted to throw out the proposal to have the new leader bound in policy "formulation or interpretation" in any way.

The new constitution which the morning session adopted was federal in tone and looked forward frankly to the next general election. In addition to providing for a national leader it also provided for a deputy national leader, who is intended to be a French-speaking Canadian.

It approved a policy statement consisting of 14 articles, the first six of which were targeted specially at the federal field. They were:

—The Social Credit Association of Canada pledges to further a democratic free and competitive enterprise society as opposed to all totalitarian and subversive philosophies and practices.

—To adopt fiscal and monetary policies, embracing the use of the Bank of Canada, which will result in a debt free national government and a national economy with an optimum of progressive development.

—To clarify within the constitution the responsibilities of each level of government and to eliminate overlapping and condition imposing policies.

—To have evolved a co-operative revenue system for which various levels of government must accept joint responsibility and which will make possible the distribution on a reasonable formula basis of nationally acceptable basic standards of services in the fields of education, health and welfare.

—To implement economic policies to minimize inflation and maintain the purchasing power of the individual.

—To charge the government of Canada with the responsibility of providing essential social capital.

Foreign Affairs Experience Won Nomination for Lodge

By MAX FREEDMAN
Special to The Times
CHICAGO—Mr. Nixon chose Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations, as the vice-presidential candidate on the Republican ticket because he wanted the party in the election campaign to dramatize the issue of experience and responsibility in foreign affairs.

Senator Ken. Max Freedman, the Democratic candidate for the presidency, is a man of vast knowledge in world affairs despite the gibes and jeers flung at him by former governor Dewey of New York. All the same Senator Kennedy is open to criticism because he has never borne any actual responsibility for carrying out a foreign policy program. His running mate Senator Johnson is somewhat of an amateur in foreign policy, almost never speaks on this subject in the Senate except to sound a call for national unity, and prefers to intone vague and specious generalities. The Democratic Party, however, has decided that it will concentrate on foreign policy in directing its indictment against the Republican ticket.

Helicopter Rescues 33 Men When B.C. Fire Jumps Guard

RCAF Planes Join Battle

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Thirty-three trapped fire-fighters were rescued today by an RCAF helicopter.

The men were trapped when the 3,000-acre Lac Le Jeune forest fire, 30 miles south of here, jumped fire guards. No injuries were reported.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The men who are fighting the hundreds of forest fires in the interior of British Columbia were standing up better than their machines this week.

Forest service officials in the Kamloops district said today breakdowns of aircraft and bulldozers was hampering the dawn-to-dusk fight against fires.

Meanwhile one of two twin-rotor helicopters that were to be loaned to the forest service by the RCAF was still in Vancouver waiting for repairs.

And one of two Otter amphibious planes was waiting for the Kootenay River to be cleared of logs at Nelson before taking off from here.

300 FIRES RAGING

The four RCAF planes were joining the battle against 300 fires over a 250-mile belt across the southern interior with permission of Defence Minister Peckham who received a request from Premier Bennett.

Norman McRae, assistant forester for this district, said Thursday it is hoped that a B-17 Flying Fortress, damaged Monday, can join other aircraft in dropping sodium bentonite, a solution used in fighting oil well fires, shortly. Pits were being dug at the airstrip here to mix the chemical with water. Water-bombers were expected to drop about 40,000 gallons a day.

NO DAMAGE ESTIMATE

No estimate has been made of the total damage to trees.

One of the promised helicopters and one Otter will be assigned to the Kamloops forest district where 267 fires are burning. The second helicopter and the other Otter go to the adjoining Nelson district which had 31 new fires Thursday, 29 of them started by an electrical storm.

Forestry officials now face a constant dilemma in deciding which blazes to attack with their limited forces.

Extreme heat Thursday kept both water bombers and a 200-man ground force from getting within striking distance of the 3,000-acre blaze near Lac Le Jeune, 30 miles south of here. But officials said the blaze, started by campers, remained within its guards.

Avenger planes bombed a fire at Dot Lake, 40 miles south of Savona, with bentonite Thursday before it could reach dangerous proportions.

THREE STRICKEN IN 24 HOURS

Hand Pumps Save Life of Polio Victim

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF Dakota today brought the third polio patient from Prince George in the last 24 hours.

RCAF spokesmen said they did not know the identity of the latest patient.

Meanwhile, Vancouver General Hospital reports Mrs. Margaret Westergaard, 30, and Margaret Morrissey, 12, are in satisfactory condition. They were flown to Vancouver Thursday.

The electrical system of one of the iron lungs used in Friday night's mercy flight broke down just as the aircraft took off from Prince George. Two doctors, a nurse and an attendant had to operate a hand pump during the two-hour and 25-minute flight to keep one of the patients alive.

DAMAGED FIRE-BOMBER UNDER REPAIR

U.S. water bomber which made wheels-up landing at Kamloops Monday, plugging airstrip for almost two days, arrived at Patricia Bay Airport today where Fairley Aviation Co. started round-the-clock repair program. Plane will be serviceable by Sunday or Monday. One of first jobs was to scrape asphalt from Kamloops landing strip, seen on ground, away from damaged tank doors, fuselage and wing areas. Four-motored B-17 "Flying Fortress" needed only lifting and fitting of new propellers at Kamloops in order to fly here. Plane carries 2,000 gallons of water. (Photo by Halkett.)

'To Roll Back Red Frontiers'

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO (CP)—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has pledged to roll back the frontiers of world Communist aggression by launching a grand offensive against world poverty, misery and disease if he becomes president next November.

LODGE TERMED 'A GOOD MAN'

NEW YORK (AP)—Arkady Sobolev, Russia's permanent representative to the United Nations, today called Henry Cabot Lodge, his frequent adversary, "a good man."

Sobolev, who left by plane for Russia, was asked at Idlewild airport for comment on the nomination of Lodge, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, as the Republican candidate for vice-president.

Katanga Visit Out

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has rejected suggestions he visit Katanga, apparently for fear a visit there would lend support to Katanga's "secession" from the Congo, it was disclosed today.

In a tough anti-Communist speech Thursday night winding up the four-day Republican national convention, the 47-year-old Nixon formally accepted in what he called "the greatest moment of my life" the Republican presidential nomination.

He welcomed aboard his "free world victory" ticket as a vice-presidential running mate Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations and symbol of American resistance to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's challenge to the free world.

LODGE ONLY NOMINEE

Lodge's name was put in nomination quickly after the final session opened by former China medical missionary, Representative Walter Judd of Minnesota, the keynote speaker last Tuesday night, and it stayed there all alone.

Lodge got 1,330 out of the 1,331 votes on the first ballot. The lone holdout was Ed Maher of San Angelo, Tex., who abstained. Why? "Just say I'm hot," replied Maher, who then changed his mind and switched to Lodge.

Nixon, speaking for 50 minutes from notes, and Lodge both stressed the theme of foreign affairs in their acceptance speeches.

Nixon's freedom offensive would include a large-scale government reorganization to centralize all of the administration's foreign-aid programs, such as loans and grants, technical assistance and cultural exchanges, under the president's direct control.

"All these must be welded together into one powerful economic and ideological striking force under the direct supervision and leadership of the United States."

It would not be enough just to hold the line against communism, he said.

Nixon set there's 10,000,000 floating voters. And m'uncle Zeke sez if they'd let Canadians in, it'd be 10,000,001.

My other uncle, Fud, sez if they cancel out racin' at Sandown at least he stands a chance o' breakin' even.

Forty consecutive days o' sunshine, the political conventions all over, and a chance to vote for Waldo. Smile! It's great to live in British Columbia!

RAPE CHARGES FALSE SAYS CONGO LEADER

MONTREAL (UPI)—Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba today denied Belgian charges that white women were raped in his new African republic. He said the reports were fabricated by foreign newspapers.

He said his government had started an inquiry, headed by Belgian magistrates—because the Congo does not have any magistrates—and they failed to find "one case of rape."

MONTREAL (CP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo said today on arrival here that the aim of all Africans is the establishment of a United States of Africa.

BELGIUM CUTS CONGO FORCES

There are about 12,000 Belgian troops in the Congo.

Law Court Bids Called

Contract for the completion of Victoria's new law courts will be awarded at the end of August, Works Minister W. N. Chant said today.

Tenders have been called for Aug. 24.

A building that size will take a year or 18 months before you are ready to move in," said Mr. Chant.

"I expect occupancy before Christmas 1961—perhaps in the fall."

By STEWART MACLEOD
PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (CP)—Fifteen full-blooded Canadian Indians "invaded" this

English seaport Thursday and some of the residents still are wondering what happened.

It's not that the Indians scalped anyone or shot up the city with arrows, but they clearly did the next worst thing. They fouled up the bus queues.

Running through the narrow streets of Portsmouth, waving their lances and feathers, the Indians delighted the thousands who knew what they came for. It was the few who didn't know that were worth watching.

"Here," shouted an old lady, as she jumped with fright from her spot in the bus queue, "they should get rid of this lot, they should."

The Indians, wearing the tribal costumes of nine Canadian nations, ran through the streets, upon sidewalks, in and out of buses, and occasionally stuck their painted faces in an open window.

The Indians came to Portsmouth with a 25-foot totem pole which was presented to HMS Excellent, a gunnery school on nearby Whale Island, by the Canadian Navy. It was in appreciation of the 50 years of instruction given to Canadian sailors at the school.

The totem pole, carved at Thunderbird Park by Mungo Martin, chief of the Kwakiutl, will be mounted on a piece of Nova Scotia granite, near the entrance to the gunnery school.

DETROIT—It was a dirty dog indeed that took a big bite—$7,500 worth—from its owner's pocketbook because it tracked across a white rug with muddy paws.

Mrs. Nora Rogers suffered a broken hip when the frisky miniature French poodle knocked her down as its owner, Mrs. Ruth Healy, tried to chase it off the rug.

Mrs. Rogers, who was visiting Mrs. Healy, received a $7,500 settlement in a $25,000 damage suit against the owner, charging the injury kept her from working as a beauty operator.

Bankers Back Nixon Russ Radio Blares

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia Thursday night delivered a blistering attack on U.S. Republican presidential candidate Richard Nixon and his party's platform.

"Behind the back of that 47-year-old leader, who made one of the dullest careers in post-war America, stands a group of powerful banks," Moscow radio charged in its home service.

Nixon also "enjoys the overt support of the most influential representatives of big business," it added.

The radio said that with Henry Cabot Lodge's nomination as Republican vice-presidential candidate virtually asured the party leadership will now be "fully and completely connected with the present policy in Washington" which it described as "bankrupt."

The attack followed an earlier barrage against the Republicans by the Soviet news agency Tass.

The agency's correspondent at the convention in Chicago condemned the "strikingly aggressive features" of the platform's sections on foreign and defence policy.

"It is obvious that the Republican party intends, if it is returned to power, to base the foreign policy of the United States on a general extension of aggressive military preparations," Tass said.

Fewer Defence Contracts For Canada From U.S.

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Defence Production Minister O'Hurley indicated Thursday the United States will place fewer defence contracts in Canada this year than last.

He said in the Commons that value of contracts placed to date this year, including both prime and subcontracts, is $35,000,000. The total for all of 1959 was $96,000,000.

Canada-U.S. defence production-sharing could be "much better," Mr. O'Hurley said during a debate which ended in Commons approval of his department's estimated expenditures of $23,000,000.

He admitted frankly that he is not optimistic about the short-term prospects of Canadian companies getting more American defence contracts.

He said requirements for weapons are changing rapidly. Canadian firms would have to get-in on the ground floor—the development stage—to be able to bid for and obtain U.S. contracts, especially in the electronics and missile fields.

Mr. O'Hurley said his goal had been that the U.S. would buy as much defence equipment in Canada as this country purchases from the U.S. This goal would not be achieved this year because of expensive purchases in the U.S. in connection with the CF-104 jet plane program.

The minister confirmed that Canada and the U.S. are considering a plane "swap"—U.S. purchase of the Canadair CL-44 transport plane in exchange for Canadian purchase of the F-101B jet interceptor for Canadian air defence.

Swapping Principle 'Unfortunate'

Opposition Leader Pearson said it would be unfortunate if the principle of "swapping" purchases were adopted. This might mean that Canada would buy something it didn't need in order to make a sale to the U.S.

Mr. O'Hurley said an American aircraft manufacturer—he did not identify the firm—is seriously considering completion of development and manufacture of the Iroquois jet engine. This engine was the intended power plant of the cancelled Arrow jet interceptor and has been in mothballs at Malton, Ont., since February, 1959.

A British company had also shown interest in the engine.

Paul Hellyer (Liberal-Toronto Trinity) said the government has no faith in Canadian industry or Canadian engineering. It should have completed development of the Iroquois engine.

Paul Martin (Liberal-East) charged the government with complete bankruptcy of policy to deal with unemployment.

All the government has done with its emphasis on winter works is transfer winter unemployment to the summer months, he said.

The government should call Parliament back into session this fall to meet the unemployment emergency.

Ex-Pacific Flag Officer Retiring

Two senior naval officers well-known on the West Coast will play leading roles in a change of command ceremony at Halifax Monday.

Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen, a former flag officer, Pacific Coast, will retire after serving as flag officer, Atlantic, and Maritime Commander, Atlantic.

He will be succeeded by Rear-Admiral Kenneth L. Dyer, a former commanding officer of HMCS Naden.

Admiral Pullen retires after 40 years of navy life, broken only by two years in the merchant service.

He entered the Royal Naval College of Canada in 1920, and when the college was closed for reasons of economy in 1922, he spent two years at sea with the CPR. In 1924, he re-entered the RCN, and was sent to England for training with the Royal Navy.

Second Mail Van Hijacked

QUEENSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—An armed gang Thursday night pulled a mail van robbery near this Lake Simcoe area community, the second mail truck holdup in two days in Ontario.

The gang stopped a mail van driven by elderly Clifford Morton by placing a stolen highway department sign reading "Stop, danger," on the road.

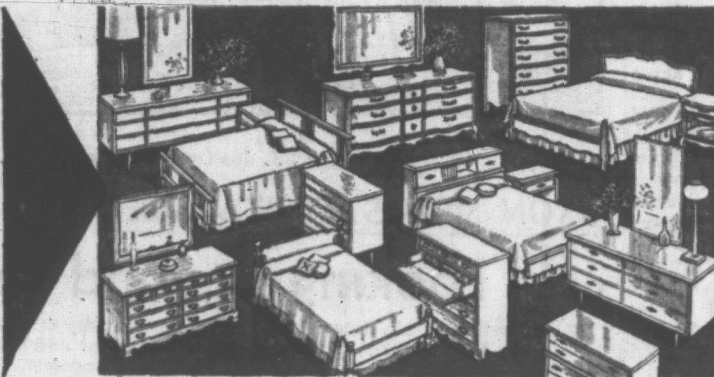

As the truck slowed a stolen black sedan swung out of a nearby driveway and blocked the road. Two men leaped from the roadside ditches, one holding a gun. They bound and gagged Mr. Morton and taped his eyes shut.

Wednesday three men hijacked a mail van near a road and escaped with 16 bags of mail. In this robbery, too, the truck was driven to a gravel pit where the driver was bound and gagged.

The Golden Chance

A PROFOUND CHANGE IN THE thinking of Quebec gives Canada the chance to create a true Bill of Rights, valid throughout the nation and imbedded in the constitution.

The new premier of Quebec, Mr. Lesage, is the last Canadian politician who might be expected to favor a Bill of Rights operative in both federal and provincial jurisdictions.

In the past it has been Quebec's opposition, its insistence on provincial rights, that prevented the St. Laurent Government from proposing any Bill of Rights and forced Mr. Diefenbaker to introduce only a federal statute, not a constitutional amendment, and to confine it strictly to federal jurisdiction.

Yet it is Mr. Lesage—evidently a liberal in thought as well as name—who now calls Mr. Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights quite inadequate and proposes a constitutional amendment.

Moreover, he says that "the experience of the past few years has convinced the Government of Quebec that human rights are not sufficiently protected in the sphere of provincial jurisdiction."

Nowhere else in Canada have they been so inadequately protected as in Quebec under the long regime of Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale. Under the Liberal Government of Mr. Lesage a new wind of reform is blowing through French Canada.

This is good news for all Canadians, and especially for Mr. Diefenbaker if he really wants an effective Bill of Rights.

He has said that his present statute is inadequate, being only a statute and confined to federal jurisdiction, but is the best he can do since the provinces will not agree to anything stronger.

When Quebec, formerly the chief obstacle to a constitutional amendment covering Parliament and the provincial legislatures, now reverses its position Mr. Diefenbaker should not hesitate to grasp this new opportunity. If Quebec will accept a true Bill of Rights it is unlikely that any province will dare to oppose it.

Mr. Diefenbaker could wisely hold up his present statute, as Mr. Pearson already has proposed, until he can seek agreement among all the provinces on a constitutional amendment. Or, alternatively, if Mr. Diefenbaker is determined to pass the present restricted and weak draft, he should prepare to expand it, with provincial concurrence, as soon as possible. Mr. Lesage has given the Prime Minister the chance he has long been waiting for. It should be grasped.

The Interests of Oak Bay

IN REEVE MURDOCH THE SOCIAL Credit Party has nominated for the Legislature a valuable public servant of Oak Bay. But running as the supporter of the Bennett Government, Mr. Murdoch has placed himself in a very dubious position.

As Reeve of Oak Bay his first duty is to the municipality and, in local affairs, he has performed it well. Like most other municipal leaders throughout British Columbia, however, Mr. Murdoch has long been dissatisfied with the Government's financial treatment of the municipalities and has made no secret of his views in the Council chamber. Against his will, he has seen the land taxes of Oak Bay continually rise while Mr. Bennett pretends to relieve the land-owner with a $50 annual grant which in many cases is more than canceled out by the local mill rate or increased assessments.

Yet Mr. Murdoch now appears as the defender of the Government though he, his council and the Oak Bay taxpayers are the victims of the Government's municipal policies.

Mr. Murdoch cannot have it both ways. He must be either the champion of the Oak Bay taxpayers or of the Government.

It is no use him saying that he accepts all the Government's policies, except its municipal policy. An elected Social Credit member of the Legislature must support the Government in every important policy, and few are more important than the Government's treatment of the municipalities.

How are the people of Oak Bay to regard Mr. Murdoch now? As their Reeve, seeking a better deal from the Government, or as a suddenly converted Social Crediter seeking to excuse the Government and responsible for its whole record and all its major policies?

In any case, as a man of integrity, Mr. Murdoch should at least resign the reevehip immediately, end his state of divided loyalties and appear candidly as the Government's chosen representative in Oak Bay. Then the electors will know exactly what they are voting for, or against.

A Vanishing Tongue

MR. RONALD P. DORE, teacher of Japanese language at the University of British Columbia and head of a research team which recently completed studies on people of Japanese origin in this province, says the Japanese language is dying out here.

In another generation, he adds, British Columbians of Japanese extraction will not speak it at all except for the few who take it up as an academic subject.

The integration of citizens of Japanese ancestry is proceeding rapidly. The traditions of the land of their fathers are breaking down. The family, though a closely-knit unit on personal grounds, is no longer revered as a tradition.

And, unfortunately, as this family influence is fading, delinquency is increasing where there used to be no delinquency at all.

There is a certain satisfaction in learning of the way in which young Canadians whose fathers came from the islands across the Pacific are adopting the customs and ways of this country. But there are certain drawbacks also.

We haven't sufficient competence in languages in this part of the world that we can afford to applaud the loss of any tongue by any section of our residents. And we are somewhat the poorer if those who come to us from distant shores abandon all their traditions. Our culture is not so rich that it could not be improved by an infusion of what is good in other lands.

Elections Cost Too Much

MR. JOHN PICKERSGILL, ONE of the ablest members in our Parliament, is worried about the increasing cost of election campaigns. Well he may be.

In these days of television, when few people will turn out to old-fashioned political meetings, the perfectly legitimate, unavoidable expenses of a political party are high—too high, Mr. Pickersgill thinks. If they continue to rise he fears that our democracy will turn into a plutocracy, government by those who can collect the most money and put on the best show.

Mr. Pickersgill is quite right, we think, in saying that the election expenditures of all political parties should be absolutely limited by law. The limits should be reasonable, every party should have full opportunity to put its ideas before the people, but political finances nowadays are becoming ridiculous—or dangerous, as Mr. Pickersgill believes.

'Ouch'

IT SEEMED PRETTY NON-union when poultry farmers first started to prolong the working day of a productive hen by introducing electric light into the chicken house.

Now the latest development is a V-shaped trough for a nest, instead of the old box-like arrangement. The V-trough puts the padding where it will do the most good when the egg emerges, prevents the hen from scratching the litter out onto the floor and saves money initially in construction. It takes two boards only to make a V-trough.

To all of which the exploited hen probably clucks: "Angles, angles, always angles."

Next we expect to hear of science developing the long-awaited "square" egg, to facilitate packaging. What the hen will say to that is familiar from an old joke: "Ouch."

"No, no, Ludwig... don't point it that way... critics are nice, deep down..."

NIXON SIGHTS ON NOVEMBER

By MAX FREEDMAN

Looking Beyond the Convention

THE nomination of Mr. Nixon Wednesday night surprised no one at the Republican convention. It has been an inevitable decision for many weeks. The big question now is whether he has been helped or hurt by events of the past few days.

His critics are making the point that the arrangement with Governor Rockefeller was a cynical political bargain totally destitute of principle and reinforcing the impression of Mr. Nixon as a man who will always put political advantage ahead of personal conviction.

This indictment misses the central point of this whole convention. It seems beyond dispute that the second choice of the Republican convention is Senator Goldwater. It is equally clear that Mr. Nixon was firmly in control of the convention. Yet Mr. Nixon chose to defy the convention and to proclaim his acceptance of the principles often advocated by Mr. Rockefeller. Why? For one reason, this convention is not representative of Republican thinking in the country and is certainly not representative of the floating and uncommitted vote. By every available test of national sentiment there is no doubt that Governor Rockefeller is the second man in the Republican Party, and with the independent voters may well be ahead of Mr. Nixon.

Commitment

Measuring these political realities, Mr. Nixon, without consulting Mr. Eisenhower, decided to commit the Republican Party to a liberal platform. He successfully challenged the convention by forcing it to accept a liberal platform that many Republicans instinctively dislike but which they are prepared to support in deference to their new leader. This conversion may not last. The Republican Party has a genius for staging periodic retreats from the Twentieth Century. But at the moment Mr. Nixon has achieved a victory as impressive as it is unprecedented.

In short, the critics of Mr. Nixon would be wise if they said less about his character and more about his skill as a political leader.

Senator Kennedy at least has avoided the mistake of underestimating the strength of his opponent. He has summoned Senator Johnson and Mr. Stevenson to his summer home to review Democratic strategy in the light of the Republican convention.

Discontent

As these Democratic leaders meet they will be uneasily aware that the stirrings of discontent in the north and south at the Kennedy-Johnson ticket have not yet disappeared. In the north anxious questions are still being put about Senator Kennedy's devotion to the liberal heritage. In the south, including Senator Johnson's own state of Texas, there is an angry explosion of feeling against the ticket. Southerners are saying that Senator Johnson has made the tragic journey from Appomattox to Munich. After leading the southern forces at the Democratic convention and speaking in contempt of Senator Kennedy's qualifications for the presidency he consented to the second place on the ticket in the high but ambiguous name of national unity. Quite frankly, many southerners are resentful of what they regard as a desertion of the south's traditional values.

On any fair comparison it must be said that Senator Kennedy has as much wreckage to remove after the Democratic convention as Mr. Nixon has after the Republican convention.

Some of Governor Rockefeller's advisers estimate that Senator Kennedy, if the election took place now, would carry the city of New York with a majority of 700,000 votes and in addition would carry Buffalo and Syracuse. If this happens, he would be able to carry New York regardless of the traditional strength of the Republican Party in the upper part of the state. A victory in New York could easily be paralleled by a triumph in New Jersey. With Mr. Stevenson pledged to campaign actively in California, the outlook for a victory there for Senator Kennedy is promising in the extreme. Governor David Lawrence of Pennsylvania forecasts a victory in Pennsylvania; it is Senator Kennedy's own calculation that he will sweep most of the New England states; and Senator Johnson predicts that the south will forget its bitterness before November and will again support the Democratic ticket.

Should all these estimates prove correct, Senator Kennedy would of course be elected as president. It is important to realize that Mr. Nixon is fully aware that he would lose the election in July. He intends to win in November by carrying the battle to Senator Kennedy in every part of the United States.

To test the ability of Mr. Nixon to carry the large northern cities, I flew to Detroit with a group of reporters to see a number of trade union leaders. It was our common view that Senator Kennedy will have at least as much support from organized labor in 1960 as Mr. Truman had in 1948. This means that the estimate of the political leaders of the Democratic Party has a strong foundation in this support of the trade union movement which in many northern cities can provide the margin of victory in the election.

Undaunted

It is no slur or reflection on Mr. Nixon to point out these obstacles to his success in the campaign. It is instead the highest tribute to his qualities as a man and as a statesman. For he is undaunted by these jostles of adversity, and he believes that his mastery of public affairs will so impress the American people that they will turn to his cause before November and vote for him because in their judgment he is best qualified to lead the United States and to speak for the Free World in this age of constant unrest and frequent challenge. No one who has watched Mr. Nixon in action at this convention can doubt that he is at the very height of his intellectual powers. He for one believes it will be a close election. He is determined to win. He is entitled to a fair hearing by world opinion without any of the prejudgments formed by years of prejudice and organized criticism of his record.

ANIMALS AROUND US

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL

After Breakfast, More Eating

BRITISH COLUMBIA can boast of more than 400 kinds of birds within her political boundaries, representing a considerable variety of types. Partly this is the result of the great diversity of habitats available, ranging from open ocean through coastal waters, plain, forest and plateau to high mountain ridges; and partly it is due to the fact we are on the "Pacific flyway," the migration route of birds that nest in the north and winter in the south.

Carl

No one person could hope to see all of these kinds of birds in life because some species are only occasional visitors and some frequent remote areas. An ardent birdwatcher, however, could list upwards of 300 species and subspecies by dint of hard work and much travel and even an amateur in the Victoria area can identify 100 or more with a little experience. And incidentally, to aid local bird observers, the Victoria Natural History Society has prepared a handy pocket-sized annotated list of local birds of which copies are available through members or through the museum office.

To review individually all the kinds of birds that frequent an area even as small as the southern portion of Vancouver Island would be impractical here. Instead we propose to divide them arbitrarily into three artificial groups, land birds, water birds, and birds of prey. In the land bird group we find such diverse kinds as seed eaters, insect eaters, omnivorous feeders and the like, ignoring for the time being the so-called birds-of-prey which are obviously mostly land birds also. The only character which these birds have in common is the habit of feeding and nesting on land. Feeding is a business that goes on during most of the waking hours of the bird but it is sometimes carried on most actively at certain periods. The majority of birds show a high feeding intensity shortly after daybreak and again in the late afternoon with minor peaks during the in-between period.

Some, such as the hummingbird, must feed at frequent intervals during the entire waking period. Other less active species may eat only twice a day.

For most birds eating is a business that has to be completed quickly. A bird can not risk being absorbed in gathering food for anything but brief periods. It therefore bolts its food whole as a rule, not having teeth with which to chew anyway, and then flies to a safe retreat perhaps in a tree. Ground feeders such as quail, blackbirds and robins constantly interrupt their feeding activity to cast an eye around for predators. So the rhythm of their feeding is "peck, peck, peck, look—peck, look—peck, peck, look—peck, look—," and so on.

Gravel in the Diet

To speed digestion the food is "chewed" in the crop by muscular activity aided by bits of gravel swallowed for that purpose. The importance of gravel to seed-eating birds was dramatically demonstrated some years ago when the coots at Elk Lake began to die during a prolonged cold spell despite the availability of food. Only when coarse sand was also provided did the remaining birds begin to "perk-up."

There is an elementary and usually obvious relationship between bill and feet and type of food utilized by each group of birds. The ground-feeders have strongly developed feet for scratching, well shown in the domestic chicken. Most seed-eaters, such as the finches and grosbeaks have powerfully-built beaks for cracking seeds. One kind, the crossbill, has the tips of the beak crossed so that the bill acts as an efficient tool for prying open cones for the extraction of seed.

Among the insect-eaters the flycatchers such as the various species of swallows and the so-called nighthawk have broad bills with a wide gape designed for catching insects on the wing. Bristle-like feathers on either side of the mouth, especially in the night hawk, help to funnel food into the proper place. In such birds the feet are poorly developed and serve only for perching. In the night hawk they are not even designed for perching and the bird is forced to squat parallel on a limb and not crosswise as in most birds.

In the true perching birds there is another ingenious arrangement found in the feet and legs. Tendons which operate the toes are so placed that in squatting the weight of the bird's body clamps the toes around the limb automatically. No effort is required to maintain a grip even when the bird sleeps.

In the woodpeckers, including the flicker and sap-suckers, the feet are strongly developed to serve as anchors on the tree bark while the bird seeks its food. Stiffened tail feathers act as props and the bill is chisel-shaped for efficient drilling and cutting. How the bird's brain remains unaddled after a jack-hammer session on a dead tree trunk has never been explained!

Trouble for Mr. Gaitskell

By DUART FARQUHARSON

MR. Hugh Gaitskell's post-election performance of courage and bad judgment has brought him to the valley of humiliation. From these sorry depths he now launches a campaign for survival.

More than his position as leader is at stake. The decision the Labor party will make this fall on defence policy will decide whether or not it is to have any chance in the foreseeable future of winning a British general election.

The drawn-out debate over Clause Four of the party's constitution can now be seen as a tragedy-comedy. Attack begat opposition. Compromise, far from uniting, heightened the opposition's cries for blood, brought further retreat, further compromise. Surrender, recently, left the left-wing triumphant, the original cause less obscure and therefore more damaging to the party's electoral image than ever before. All this over a theoretical issue.

When Mr. Gaitskell told the post-election conference at Blackpool last November that Clause Four, which commits the party to the common ownership of the means of production, distribution and exchange, ought to be revised, he knew he was courting unpopularity. But he preferred to "forego the cheers now" in the belief that Clause Four, by leaving Labor open to continual misrepresentation as "a nationalizing party," made defeat at the next election certain.

Trade Union Opposition

Unfortunately he had not consulted the trade union leaders. In deference to their opposition he compromised in March. Clause Four was to remain intact. An addendum to "reaffirm, amplify and clarify party objects" would recognize that "both public and private enterprise have a place in the economy." Given the tempers aroused by Mr. Gaitskell's handling of the issue even this weak-kneed "New Testament" was too much. One by one the big trade unions voted the compromise down. With defeat certain at the annual conference in Scarborough next October Mr. Gaitskell capitulated. Clause Four, the party's national executive ordained, was not to be tampered with this year, next year or even in 1962.

Perhaps the party will thus be able to forget its self-disintegrating quarrel. Unfortunately the voting public may not. Before November few people had ever heard of Clause Four. Now every Jack in the pub knows that the great majority of Labor remains firmly committed to the idea of nationalization.

Ironically, the practical result of the battle over party aims is, as everyone knew it would be from the start, to change absolutely nothing. If Labor should be elected at the next election it will be no more inclined to nationalize or denationalize anything than it would have been last November, last March or now. The difference is that the nationalizing image which worried Mr. Gaitskell in November, an image which might have been quietly forgotten, has been brought up to the fore.

Mixed Economy

As a sop to its leader the party's national executive resolved to commend the mixed economy clause of March to the annual conference as "a valuable expression of the aims of the Labor party in the second half of the twentieth century." Because it is no longer a constitutional amendment some of the big unions may feel kindly enough disposed to support the statement. But the possibility of a final slap on the face of Mr. Gaitskell seems likely.

The Clause Four battle lost, Mr. Gaitskell is now free to concentrate what prestige he has left on getting the annual conference to adopt the executive's compromise defence policy. The prognosis is not good. The other day leaders of the Amalgamated Engineers' Union, whose commitment to unilateral disarmament appeared to be less firm than the other big unions opposed to official policy, made it clear that any switch of their vote was exceedingly unlikely.

Defence policy, unlike Clause Four, is a ground on which a pitched battle must be fought. There can be no compromise here.

The unilateralist and pacifist wings of the Labor party have long represented a sizeable minority of British public opinion. But the great majority, including many Socialist left-wingers, are not going to send Tommy to a nuclear war armed with a water-pistol.

For Labor to adopt a unilateralist policy, Mr. Gaitskell rightly believes, would be to commit electoral suicide. Englishmen who believe in the preservation of the present two-party system pray he will be able to prevent it.

Can One Avoid Strokes?

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Many people write asking if there is anything they can do to avoid getting a stroke. Perhaps the person has already had one or more little strokes, and hence is uneasy. Probably the best thing that can be done is to take every day a dose of a cumarin type of drug which cuts down on the tendency of the blood to clot in the arteries of the brain and heart and legs. Unfortunately, for persons living far from a big city where there are good clinical laboratories, the effect of an anti-clotting drug should be checked every so often with a measurement of the prothrombin time.

Alvarez

If this time isn't controlled, and the man should happen to take too much of the drug, he might bleed internally and get into serious trouble. Statistics gathered by many physicians show that when the tendency of the blood to clot is reduced by a half, the persons who have had a coronary heart attack or a little stroke generally will live several years longer than they otherwise would.

Persons who have had trouble with thrombophlebitis or a clotting of blood in one of the big veins of the thigh and leg may do well to take a cumarin drug every day for the rest of their life.

Many people, usually middle-aged women, suffer much annoyance from an infection of the urinary bladder which is called cystitis. They should be examined to see if, when they stand up, their bladder rolls down so low that it does not empty well at the time of urination. When urine stagnates, it tends to get infected. Hence in many cases the ideal treatment is an operation in which the bladder will be pushed up into the pelvis where it belongs, and torn muscles in the pelvic floor will be sewn together.

The physician should check the urine to see if it is full of germs. If so, he will do well to get a culture of these germs to make sure which they are. With this knowledge, he can tell better what antibiotic to use. Sometimes he can warn the woman that she has a type of germ that is extremely difficult to get rid of. Sometimes, when he finds only a few germs of a certain type that are not giving much trouble, he may leave them alone. We doctors can over-treat. Sometimes a man will have to make a study to see if the urine in one of the kidneys is infected. Often he will find that the trouble is a slight urethritis, or chronic infection of the tube that carries urine from the bladder to the outside. This is a disease of nervous and overly-sensitive women.

Often it is best left alone because the more it is treated, the worse it can get!

Anyone who has ever had trouble with an ingrowing toenail knows how much torture it can produce. A good way of avoiding the trouble is to get a chiropodist's instrument, such as he uses for cleaning out the furrows on each side of the big toe nails. With this, perhaps once a week, after a bath when the tissues are soft, the furrows can be cleaned out.

Dr. Wolfram Korner of Berlin says that if trouble has started an excellent way of getting relief is to get two short lengths of small plastic tubing, such as doctors use. With a scissors these are split into two little U-shaped troughs. One of these is pushed back under the hurting edge of the nail and, according to the doctor, relief comes instantly. I cannot vouch for this as I haven't tried it, but perhaps to some of our podiatrist friends it is an old story, and they can tell us if it will work.

Incidentally, if anyone—and especially an elderly person—has sore feet, he or she ought to go and learn how wonderful is the comfort a good podiatrist can give. I remember that years ago, when I visited a large Old Peoples' Home, I found that the most-loved person in the place was the podiatrist. Why? Because he made the old peoples' feet so comfortable.

Many elderly people write wanting to know if they should be anxious about a number of little red nodules, some about the size of the head of a pin, which have appeared, perhaps mainly on the skin over their breast bone. I doubt if anyone need worry about these little nodules. I have never seen them turn into cancer.

FAST BARGAINING

New Liberal Chiefs Win Concessions

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's newest provincial premiers—both Liberals—did some fast bargaining Thursday with federal government officials.

Each emerged from the private talks with a sense of accomplishment.

Premier Lesage of Quebec got:

1. Agreement in principle on a federal-provincial deal to bring Quebec into the Trans-Canada Highway construction program.

2. An idea of federal views on Quebec's plan to launch a hospital insurance plan by next January.

Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick got:

1. A federal promise to start immediately on a study of the feasibility of the Chignecto Canal, an 18-mile waterway that would link the Bay of Fundy and Northumberland Strait.

2. The most significant development was the Quebec-Canada agreement on a way for the federal government to pay its share of a proposed 400-mile roadway in Quebec, part of the nationwide Trans-Canada Highway.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Dickens Gets a New Twist

LONDON—Lionel Bart... he's the one they're talking about at the moment.

The big over-night success this 27-year-old has scored with "Oliver," the musical version of Oliver Twist, has brought to light the fact that over the past year or so he has been writing the nation's top pop songs.

He has had a strange hold on the British Hit Parade with such discs as Max Bygrave's treatment of Fings Ain't Wot They Used To Be (herein-after referred to as Fings), Tommy Steele's The Little White Bull, Anthony Newley's Do You Mind, Cliff Richard's Livin' Doll—plus several other Top-Tenners.

With three stage musical hits in a row and the single numbers he dashes off, he has suddenly emerged as Britain's post-war Noel Coward.

Not that he bears the slightest resemblance to Coward apart from this role of being Britain's leading tunesmith. Bart has nothing of dear Noel's long-cigar-holder, silk-dressing-gown sophistication. He's much more akin to Irving Berlin.

Irving Berlin was a young Jew from New York's East Side who was no great shakes as a musician but who could think up wonderfully singable songs. Lionel Bart is a young Jew from London's East End who confesses that not only can he not read music—he can't even play it. His so-called songs he hums into a tape recorder, for somebody else to put the dots down on paper.

Son of a tailor and brought up in a slum near Petticoat Lane, he is only too ready to talk about his being Jewish.

He points out that most of the great musical shows, from the days of George Gershwin and Irving Berlin to the present era of Guys and Dolls and West Side Story, were written by Jews.

"I've got a theory about that," he says. "I feel that all life is a search for love—a desire to be loved. And nobody is more prone to this desire of needing to be approved of than minority groups such as the Jews.

"That's why they make such brilliant entertainers. That is why they go into show business. That approval and that applause—it's a kind of love, isn't it?"

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Prune According to Growth Age

To prune a tree or shrub successfully the gardener must be able to recognize the age of the different growths by their appearance, because old and new wood is constantly referred to in pruning instructions.

Some pruning cuts are made to within six inches of old wood, others are made to remove the oldest wood, and some to remove wood of a specified age such as three-year-old wood.

Although pruning instructions may appear confusing to the beginner and untrained amateur, it is noticeable that most can do a commendable job once they know the differences which indicate age.

These differences are quickly grasped from an experienced pruner, but most of us have to find them for ourselves by observation.

I have found that it is easier for the beginner to start a study of tree and shrub growths in summer than in the winter at the normal time for pruning.

During the summer there seems to be a more distinct coloring to the bark and a more noticeable difference in color, to mark the different ages of the wood.

The current growths will be light green to golden green. Last year's growth a darker green or brown, and previous years are indicated by progressively darker color and a dryer, harder bark.

The home gardener who will have trees and shrubs to prune next winter can learn a lot on a warm summer evening. A book on pruning, a notebook, and observation are all that are needed to take the indecision out of the job.

CIVI MOBILE UNIT IN ATTENDANCE SATURDAY, 9 TILL 5

REMAINS REEVE

George Murdoch Sacred Candidate

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch is the Social Credit nominee for Oak Bay constituency for the coming provincial election.

He was chosen at a nominating convention Thursday night in the municipal hall attended by about 80 persons.

His nomination was unopposed and unanimous.

The Oak Bay seat was left vacant by the death earlier this year of Liberal P. A. (Archie) Gibbs.

Mr. Murdoch, a veteran of 15 years on council, the last 1½ years as reeve, is a native of Victoria and has lived here all his life. He is a radio and TV technician.

It is his first venture into fields other than civic politics.

In a brief speech of acceptance, Mr. Murdoch praised the late Mr. Gibbs as "a fine man." This drew applause from the assembly.

He said that substantial government aid received by Oak Bay during Mr. Gibbs' tenure of office had convinced him the government "wasn't playing politics."

In the old days, one could tell a constituency that had a member in the House because "the roads were fixed."

REPUTATION

Health Minister Eric Martin said the reeve had a "tremendous reputation," and was extremely well-versed in municipal affairs.

"You are going to raise the calibre of the legislature. We can always do with more good men."

The health minister said he had heard "confidence" expressed in Mr. Murdoch's nomination long before the convention was held.

Without elaborating, the minister said the government's hospital insurance coverage for chronic patients will commence next month, and that this would be followed by extension of medical coverage.

EASY STAGES

The program would proceed "in easy stages... as we can afford it."

The scheme was not socialistic in any sense, he said, as aim was to provide "the maximum of freedom along with financial security."

He charged that Opposition Leader Robert Strachan had done the labor movement "a tremendous disservice" in criticism of the government's plan to develop the Peace River area through Wenner-Gren and his associates.

"At no time has this government given away anything, nor does it intend to do so. They'll pay for everything they get, and we'll get our monies worth."

He termed it outright "audacity" for anyone to say there was a "giveaway" involved.

Mr. Murdoch said he would continue as reeve at least until December next year even if he is elected to the legislature.

NEGRO YOUTH SHOT TO DEATH

CHICAGO (AP)—Two gangs of Negro youths battled in what police termed a vengeance brawl Thursday night. One youth was killed, another wounded by slugs from a .22 calibre rifle.

At almost the same time, an influx of Negroes at a predominantly white swimming pool touched off a racial brawl that drew a crowd of 300.

The gang fight occurred between members of the Cobras and the Vice Lords.

Killed was Richard Parks, 15, a member of the Vice Lords.

Police said the racial incident on the south side was touched off by the entrance of 50 to 60 Negroes at Bessemer Park pool, which normally is used by only a few Negroes.

Gov't Studying Pine Point Routes

OTTAWA (CP)—An economic analysis of the two routes proposed for the Pine Point railway has been started by the federal government, Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said Thursday.

He told a reporter that following this study the government will reach a decision on the route and work out details of what arrangements should be made with the railways.

He mentioned that the federal royal commission appointed to study possible routes was unable to agree on one.

The 400-mile railway to Pine Point on the Southern shore of Great Slave Lake would be built from a northern Alberta terminus of the Northern Alberta Railway, owned jointly by the CNR and CPR.

The question is whether to start it from the NAR's end of steel at Grimshaw in northwestern Alberta or from that railway's terminus at Watrous in the northeastern part of the province.

He indicated that there is a sense of urgency about construction of the line, which would tap lead-zinc deposits at Pine Point.

Charter First To Make Sure Of Recreation

Choosing boating as a recreation need not be a blind date, since the many boat rental services in the major boating areas permit every "would be" skipper to try before he buys.

Whether your interest is in a canoe, rowboat, outboard runabout, inboard cruiser, houseboat or a sailboat, there is a rental service ready and willing to serve your needs. You can rent for an hour, a day, a week, or for an entire vacation period. The opportunity to try boating for any desired length of time should certainly eliminate many of the disappointments that have occurred in the past.

GROWING QUICKLY

Boating like most other sports has its fans and its foes. Some folks like it and some don't. Unlike other sports, however, boating can be enjoyed in many ways. That is probably the reason for its popularity with 38,000,000 North Americans. Nearly 5,000,000 of these are water skiing enthusiasts, and their ranks are rapidly increasing.

More than 40 per cent of the 8,000,000 pleasure boats now in use are bought mainly for fishing. It is this phase of boating that has almost universal appeal.

ETIQUETTE COVERS ALL NEEDS

Know Rules on Flag Use

What are the questions most often answered incorrectly by aspirants to pleasure craft membership in the Canadian Boating Federation? This was the question that we posed in this column some weeks ago when we listed the 16 questions that must be answered correctly before a boat owner is allowed to fly the CBF burgee as a mark of knowledge of small boat seamanship.

It may come as a surprise that the question that bothers most is the one that asks what flags, ensigns or burgees are flown and where to display them.

The second question most often answered incorrectly deals with the customs procedures for visiting a foreign country.

Flying the wrong flag, or the correct flag in the wrong position, certainly does not impair the owner's boat operation efficiency, but it does stamp him with a lack of knowledge of flag customs and boating etiquette. So why not do it correctly and according to tradition?

One of the basics is never—repeat never—fly the Union Jack any place on your boat while under way. It is a land flag for citizens and can only be flown afloat by Her Majesty the Queen, admirals of the fleet, and certain high officers of the British government or its colonies, and at the jack staffs of ships of the Royal Navy and H. M. Air Force.

Unless a motorboat owner is a member of a Royal yacht club, he flies the Canadian Red Ensign from a stern staff. Yachts when in harbor also fly the Red Ensign from a taff-rail staff. Under way, a sailing yacht should fly the ensign from the position of honor . . . at the gaff if a yacht is gaff-rigged or from the leech (high up) if not. In two or more masted craft the after mast is senior.

If the owner belongs to a yacht or boating club that has a burgee, then the burgee is flown from a staff in the bows or over the wheelhouse where there is no mast. Burgees carrying advertising slogans or manufacturer's trade-marks should never be flown, no matter how pretty or cute, when afloat.

Where there is a mast, the club burgee is prominently displayed from the truck. If the owner is a flag officer of a yacht or boating club, his special flag is always displayed at the truck, or from a special staff in the bow or over the wheelhouse.

The Blue Ensign is reserved for members of Royal yacht clubs who must obtain a warrant before wearing it. Applications for warrants are made to the club secretary who in turn makes a formal request for the privilege from official Ottawa.

When visiting a foreign port it is customary to fly the ensign of that country as a mark of courtesy. In motorboats without masts, the bow staff can be used, but generally the single-masted boat would display it from the star-board yard or upper cross-tree, or on a two-masted vessel from the foremast.

Custom decrees that ensigns should not be flown during the hours of darkness, although this rule does not rigidly apply to club burgees, owner's flags or officer's flags.

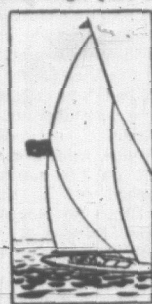

Customs procedure is: 1. Obtain a cruising permit from the local customs office—this will last the season. 2. Clear customs before leaving your home port. 3. Contact foreign customs office on arriving at the foreign port—this can often be accomplished by a phone call—before any of your passengers go ashore. 4. On returning to your home port, or your first Canadian port of call, contact nearest customs office immediately.

STARTED STUDY

King's Crown Aid to Design

How does a naval architect know whether your newly designed boat will float or capsize when it hits the water?

Because an ancient king decided that his jeweler was dishonest. It was the king's opinion that a newly made crown was not pure gold as ordered. Not wishing to damage the new headgear to confirm his opinion, the king offered a prize to anyone who could determine whether he had been bilked without destroying the crown.

One Archimedes gave the matter serious thought. While taking a bath, Archimedes conceived a method of testing the crown without damage. It is said he became so excited that he rushed out into the street in his birthday suit shouting "Eureka! Eureka!"

NEW PRINCIPLE

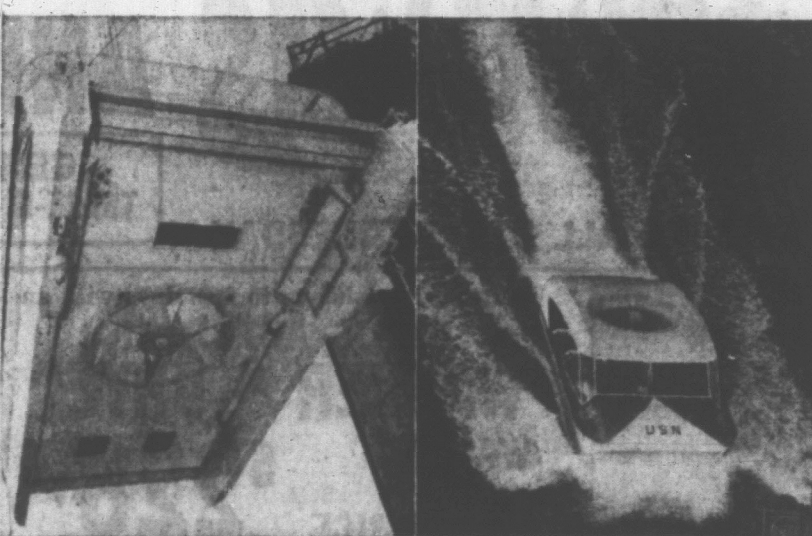

Archimedes (287-212 B.C.) had discovered more than a method of testing the king's crown. He had discovered the principles dealing with floating bodies, a discovery as important to water-borne bodies as the wheel to land vehicles. Thus, because a king became suspicious of the royal jeweler, the science of hydrostatics, or why boats float, was founded.

All boats, when at rest, sink down into the water until they have displaced a volume of water equal in weight to that of the boat. Some boats continue this displacement when in motion and are called displacement type boats. Most sailboats, larger power boats, and all commercial craft are of this type.

As the displacement type boat moves through the water it creates a system of waves. The size of these waves depends on the speed of the boat. Spacing of the waves from crest to crest depends on the length of the boat. The energy required to establish these waves comes from the boat's power plant.

As the speed of a boat increases more of the engine's power is used in wave making. Finally, if enough power is available, the waves become so great that the boat is driven under. In a displacement boat 25 feet in length at the waterline, this might occur at speeds above nine or 10 miles per hour. Such slow speeds would not satisfy many of today's pleasure boat owners.

To attain higher speeds with small craft it is necessary to reduce the amount of energy wasted in creating waves. This is done by reducing the boat's displacement in motion as compared to its displacement when at rest. The hull is designed to rise in the water as speed increases until the wetted surface is but a fraction of that when the boat is at rest. Hulls that function in this manner are called planing hulls since, under proper conditions, the hull actually does plane. Most pleasure craft are of the planing type.

EXPERIMENTAL air-cushion U.S. Navy boat, called the Hydro-streak, rips along the Potomac River in Washington, right. Centred in its roof is big ducted fan which forces air down onto water where it is trapped by wall of water fore and aft and runners along the sides. Riding two feet above the water on this air column, the boat is driven along by two 80-h.p. engines and twin screws much faster than ordinary craft. Left is shown the bottom of the unusual boat which is manufactured by the Hughes Tool Co. Horizontal nozzles from which water is pumped stretch across bow and stern of unconventional craft.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Modern Light Trailer Answer To Problem of Boat Storage

Where to keep the boat is no longer a problem for one-quarter of the eight million owners in North America.

They have solved the problem neatly and completely with a boat trailer, with the added advantage of being able to choose their cruising waters. The trailer provides an excellent storage place for the boat when it is not in use. It also provides a cradle for servicing the craft during fitting out.

Modern trailers are designed to protect the boat from injury caused by road shocks and jars. This is important if the boat is expected to give satisfactory performance and have a reasonable life.

KINK IN KEEL

There is a case of a man who bought a boat that had been used with a trailer for two years. The boat failed to perform as it should. On close inspection, it was found that the keel had developed a bad hook. This was due to improper support on the trailer that was never intended for the boat it was carrying. Not all damage is due to improper trailers. Lack of maintenance also takes its toll.

Safety should always be given first consideration in any maintenance program. For example, there is nothing more disconcerting than to have the trailer go adrift while on the highway. The coupler mechanism should be given a careful check, along with the winch gearing and line; safety chains, brake actuator, lighting harness and bulbs, and tilting locks and mechanism. Make sure these are working properly. If any parts show signs of wear, immediate replacement should be made.

To prevent damage to the boat while resting on the trailer or being hauled over the highway, check rollers for deep gouges or other signs of wear.

The frame, tongue, fenders, winch mast, and other metal parts, should be checked for signs of rust. Where found, it should be removed and the bare spots retouched with matching paint.

Use No. 30 motor oil to lubricate the coupler mechanism. A heavy grease, like No. 70, should be applied to the tilt frame mechanism, rollers, cradle mechanism, winch gearing, and tilt-jack gear track.

HUBS MAY HEAT

Wheel bearings should be examined, cleaned, and lubricated by a competent garage man, or by the trailer dealer. Whenever you are on the highway and stop at a service station, check the temperature of the wheel hubs with your hand. If they are heating unduly, have the wheels serviced at once.

These are all simple little things, but they will go a long way toward making your boating free from avoidable accidents. Just a little attention to such small details, helps make every week a safe boating week.

Games Keep Child Keen On Boating

Getting children to go for a boat ride is no problem, but keeping them interested can be another matter altogether. Here are a few wrinkles on keeping the youngsters entertained and out of danger while under way.

The methods you use on auto trips to keep the young ones occupied, such as guessing games, singing, toys, and coloring books, will work equally well on a boat trip. Afloat, you'll have the added advantage of stretching room.

Fortunately, most of the sports boaters enjoy are just as much fun for youngsters. Water skiing is easy for young and old alike; fishing, even with a stick and a bent pin, keeps kids busy for hours.

"HELP" TO STEER

"Helping" to steer, looking for objects along the shore, and keeping track of the various kinds of boats sighted are a few other projects which will hold their interest.

Young boaters love to help coil ropes, prepare snacks, and clean the interior of a boat.

The secret is, one mother possibly discovered around the house, make the work into a game.

On shore, save your voice and temper by setting a boundary on how far the kids can roam unattended. And remember to save the empty containers left over from lunch to carry home the treasures the kids discover.

"When Mr. Khrushchev says the Monroe Doctrine is dead in the Americas, we say the doctrine of freedom applies everywhere in the world."

Lodge, hailed with a six-minute ovation by convention delegates and spectators, promised when he came to the rostrum to "put every ounce of energy I have into this campaign."

Lodge told the delegates that on the basis of his experience and talents "there is no man in America who could represent us in the turmoil of world politics—and I specifically include the Soviet Union and the rest of the Communist empire—as Richard Nixon would do."

"The basic contest is the life and death struggle between the Communists on the one hand and those who insist on being free on the other. This is what gives this election of 1960 its compelling, overwhelming importance to us and to the world."

13 Charges Against 2 Chinese

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Chinese arrested by the RCMP in Montreal Thursday are to appear in court next Wednesday in connection with an alleged racket to smuggle thousands of Chinese into Canada.

Bruce Wong, 44, and Henry Chan, 40, were arrested at their travel agencies in Chinatown, near St. Lawrence Boulevard, and arraigned later on a total of 13 charges.

Wong is charged with three counts of perjury, three of forgery and three of uttering forged immigration and citizenship documents. Chan faces two charges of forgery and two of uttering forged documents.

Wong was among prominent members of Montreal's Chinese community who recently visited Ottawa to discuss the situation with Immigration Minister Fairclough.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, president of the B.C. Agricultural Association, said today that the organization will decide early next week whether to hold a huge public picnic during August as a method of introducing Greater Victorians to its 140-acre property near Colwood Corners where it hopes to establish a large annual fair.

United Nations. It should be understood that many diplomats feel that Mr. Lodge has been too belligerent and controversial both at the Security Council and in special meetings of the General Assembly. Greater restraint might have presented the United Nations from being another embattled arena of the cold war.

The American people, however, have welcomed Mr. Lodge's toughness and have rejoiced in his refusal to take Soviet insults without a swift and indignant reply. It is because of the huge following which he has built up by these tactics that Mr. Lodge is now the vice-presidential candidate.

Beaten by Kennedy
Mr. Lodge was beaten by Mr. Kennedy in 1952 partly because he underestimated his young opponent in the senatorial race in Massachusetts and also because he was giving a large part of his time to the organization of Mr. Eisenhower's presidential campaign.

Mr. Eisenhower rewarded that loyalty by appointing him as ambassador to the United Nations and giving him a seat in the cabinet. Mr. Lodge's work at the United Nations has won such admiration in the Republican party that he often has been mentioned as a possible secretary of state in a Nixon cabinet, although the favorite for this position is Mr. Douglas Dillon, the present undersecretary of state. Mr. Herter, the secretary of state, has announced that he will retire in January regardless of the outcome of the election.

Before he was chosen as the vice-presidential candidate there were two arguments brought against Mr. Lodge. The first was that he is hardly the man to win back New England when he had already been defeated by Senator Kennedy. The answer is that Senator Kennedy in 1958 was re-elected by more than 85 per cent of the vote in Massachusetts. No one can beat him in Massachusetts and his strength in the other states of New England is so strong that the traditional supremacy of the Republican party is under-urgent challenge.

Mr. Lodge may not be able to turn the tide, and he certainly cannot do in New England what Senator Johnson will do in the south for the Democratic party; but no one can do any better.

The second argument was that Mr. Nixon should choose someone from the Mid-West, the unshaken citadel of Republican power, and the area which has been steadily neglected in the choice of party spokesmen. To this the reply has two-fold. There is no one from the Mid-West who is more than a regional figure, and Mr. Lodge's tough attitude to the Russians will exert a great appeal to the people of the Mid-West. It was this argument, coupled with Mr. Lodge's ability as a speaker and campaigner, that made him Mr. Nixon's choice.

Mr. Lodge is a grandson of the famous Senator Henry Cabot Lodge who was primarily responsible for persuading the senate to reject the membership of the United States in the League of Nations, thereby helping to create a sequence of events that led ultimately to the avoidable tragedy of the Second World War.

Lodge's role in that controversy is remembered with bitterness because it was inspired by no high principle but was born of a personal feud with President Woodrow Wilson.

The present Mr. Lodge has been painfully aware of his family inheritance. He has a touching and sentimental attachment to the memory of his grandfather but he himself has always been a devoted supporter of the United Nations and has moved far away from his grandfather's fears and prejudices.

Major Issue
In his acceptance speech Thursday night Mr. Lodge said the Eisenhower administration has successfully opposed Communist pressure in the danger area of the world and with equal success has resisted the encroachments of Communist subversion. He said this record entitled the Republican Party to a new mandate of confidence under the leadership of Mr. Nixon. He also placed the debate on civil rights in a new framework by reminding the American people that this no longer was an issue between North and South but was instead an issue by which the rest of the world judged the fidelity of America's commitment to freedom and equality.

On the national scene, Mr. Lodge will bring more personal attractiveness to the Republican ticket than Senator Johnson, the master of statecraft and political manoeuvre, will bring to the Democratic ticket. Whether he will be able to influence as many votes is another matter. But in a limited field Mr. Nixon chose the best available man in selecting Mr. Lodge.

Water rates for Victoria consumers go up an average of 10 per cent Monday.

City council made it official Thursday by giving final reading to the rate increase bylaw.

The boost will be reflected partially in bills that go out during August and September. Full weight of the increase will be borne in the October bills.

Council also has an application pending before the Public Utilities Commission to raise the rate in Esquimalt.

Originally, the boosts were to go into effect simultaneously, but the Victoria hike was speeded to avert a serious upset to the city budget because of delays in obtaining PUC approval for the increase in Esquimalt.

Public Utilities Commission Thursday reserved decision on an application by Greater Victoria Water Board to raise retail water rates charged to consumers in unorganized territory.

The application was opposed by Langford Chamber of Commerce and two individuals during the two-hour hearing.

The water board asked for increases, similar to the 40 per cent boost in effect in Oak Bay, Saanich and Victoria, to start Sept. 1 for rural consumers.

The Langford chamber's brief, presented by president A. J. Cottyn, said rural customers are charged far more

NEW WESTMINSTER—Vancouver assured itself of its first Inter-city Lacrosse League title in 15 years by beating New Westminster, 10-8, here Thursday.

The victory gave Vancouver 36 points, six more than New Westminster, and each club has two games left to play. It is the first time since 1945 that Vancouver has captured first place.

Vancouver led 2-1 at the end of the first period, but New Westminster scored three unanswered goals in the second session to lead 4-2 at half-time. It was 6-6 at the end of three before Vancouver staged a last-period rally to outscore New Westminster 4-2.

Bill Barbour scored four goals and added one assist to lead the Vancouver attack, with others coming from Gordie Gimple, Wayne Pecknold, Fred Usselman, Alec Carey, Bob Babcock and Ron Hemmerling.

Cliff Sepka was the big gun for New Westminster with three goals, while Mike Gates, one of three rookies called up by New Westminster, scored two goals. Other tallies came from Charlie Saunders, Ivan Stewart and Bill Jobb.

Goalies Stan Joseph of Vancouver and Les Norman of New Westminster, running neck and neck in league statistics, each turned in fine games. Norman blocked 26 shots, while Joseph handled 19. Each squad was assessed 14 minutes in penalties and each scored once with the man advantage. Vancouver also scored once in the first period while playing a man short.

The Greater Victoria District Lawn Bowling Association's 33rd annual Island championships, which annually attract entries from points as far south as California, will start Monday and wind up Saturday, Aug. 6, with all finals.

An entry list of over 250 names has been compiled for the seven competitions, slightly down from last year. Most of last year's champions will be back.

The Kerrisdale foursome that Mrs. D. L. Barr skipped to the women's rinks title has been disbanded, and the women's doubles champs, Mrs. A. Chambers and Mrs. C. Bennett of New Westminster, are this year competing with new partners.

Otherwise, the slate of defending champs remains virtually intact. Monday's spotlight will be centred on men's rinks and women's doubles. Singles matches will also get under way.

The rinks matches will be held at Beacon Hill, Burnside and Lake Hill greens, while the women's events will be staged at Canadian Pacific, Victoria West and Beacon Hill. Competition gets under way at 9 a.m.

Singles play, starting at 7 p.m., will be at Beacon Hill and Canadian Pacific greens for both men and women. On Wednesday the men will start doubles play at all six local clubs, while the women will stage rinks competition at Victoria West and Canadian Pacific.

Friday will be reserved for mixed rinks competition. Finals in all events will be staged at the Beacon Hill greens Saturday.

Island will travel to Moses Lake but will refuse to play a game there with Duncan. The trouble started originally when Duncan officials complained that their team was the victim of an unfair draw, despite the fact that the draw had been passed prior to the tournament. Walla Walla upheld the protest.

Meanwhile, manager Al Woodley of Mid-Island said that he has "had a bellyful" and is quitting after this season. "There's no sportsmanship," he said. "We're here to teach the kids baseball and sportsmanship, and we do. But there's too much adult in kid's baseball."

EAGER WAITER SERVED EXTRA PORTION OF PILLS

BELGRADE (AP) — Five persons were arrested Thursday, charged with poisoning members of a rival soccer team on the eve of a decisive match.

Maribor Braniks were to have played the Karlovac team at Maribor last Sunday, the winner moving up into the second National League next season. But the game was cancelled when virtually all members of the Karlovac team were stricken with a stomach ailment.

Police investigated and charged that a manager of the Maribor team connived with a waiter at the hotel in which the visitors stopped to put slow-down pills into the food. The waiter, however, became over-eager and put too many in each portion with the result that the players became ill.

Island Tourney Starts Monday

Vancouver Island's biggest lawn bowling tournament will be held next week at six Victoria clubs.

The Greater Victoria District Lawn Bowling Association's 33rd annual Island championships, which annually attract entries from points as far south as California, will start Monday and wind up Saturday, Aug. 6, with all finals.

Flood Upsets John Fraser

TORONTO (CP) — John Fraser of Victoria, a top-seeded player in the Ontario junior tennis championships, was eliminated in a semi-final upset Thursday.

Fraser lost to fourth-seeded Brian Flood of London, Ont., 6-2, 2-6, 6-3 in the junior men's class. Flood, 16-year-old western Ontario junior champion, meets Montreal's Claude Savaria in the final today.

Fraser was luckier, however, in the junior men's doubles semi-final, where he teamed with Frank Wozicki of Toronto to defeat Cam Dalglish of Edmonton and Al Davis of Calgary, 6-2, 6-4.

MINNEAPOLIS—Harlow Irwin, 134½, Minneapolis, outpointed Lauto Salas, 134, Monterrey, Mexico, 10-8.

PAGES AT ABERDEEN

Amateur Loop Cards Two Games Saturday

When Pages are away, the Eagles will play. Officials of the city Senior Amateur Baseball League, taking advantage of the fact that Victoria Pages will be down at Aberdeen on Saturday, have announced two amateur loop games at Royal Athletic Park.

At 1:30 p.m. Eagles will tangle with Naval Veterans, and at 6:30 Eagles will clash with Olson Motors.

Tonight's game will go on as scheduled, with Naval Vets playing Wakeman Trimble at 6:30.

There will be no games Wednesday and Friday of next week.

Pages, of the Northwest International Semipro League, will be playing their second "away" series of the year.

Both Pony Teams Going —But Will They Play?

Vancouver Island's Pony Baseball League grew more bewildering by the hour today as rumblings continued to sound as an aftermath of Duncan's upheld protest about the B.C. championships in Victoria last weekend.

No one knew for certain what would happen as mid-Island officials, who refused to let their boys play a game at Duncan Thursday, appeared firm in their decision not to meet the Duncan club on the playing field despite the fact that district officials in Walla Walla, Wash., have ordered them to do so.

Walla Walla officials had originally stipulated that the two clubs play a best-of-three series starting Thursday, to decide second place in the B.C. tournament. Second-place finisher gets a berth in the district championships at Moses Lake, Wash., starting Tuesday.

But the mid-Islanders refused to play, stating that some of the team had already left for Moses Lake believing themselves to be in the district tourney.

Walla Walla then suggested that the two clubs both go to Moses Lake and play a preliminary game to determine which team would get the berth.

But as far as could be determined this morning, Mid-

Work on a putting stroke that is constant in its tempo. You don't tap or poke a putt. You stroke it. Anything but an evenly progressive stroke will influence the position of the putter's face too suddenly and destroy all hope of getting the club to contact the ball at the proper right angle to the intended line.

You'll keep hearing theories that the putter remains at a right angle to the intended path throughout the back-stroke. Some fine putters put this way, but I don't recommend it. Why not make a putt a miniature swing? The putter face will open on the back-stroke and close as it returns.

Learn to make the back-stroke only as long as necessary to provide a power base for the stroke back.

This way you'll never have the tendency to take the putter out of the putt.

LISTENING INTENTLY to briefs opposing the transfer of Sandown racing dates to Vancouver are Alan Pendray, president, Victoria Chamber of Commerce; Sam Lane, meeting chairman; Glen Mc-

Donald, chairman, B.C. Racing Commission, and commission secretary Ken McConnell. Decision on the application is expected to be handed down next week. (Photo by Strickland.)

'Buy Track If You Want Races' Randall Tells Protest Meeting

By HAL MALONE

If Victorians want horse racing on Vancouver Island they can buy Sandown near Sidney for $200,000 complete.

Sandown and Exhibition Park operator Bill Randall dropped this "bomb" Thursday at a public meeting conducted by the B.C. Racing Commission to hear briefs of Mr. Randall's application to transfer Sandown dates to Exhibition Park.

He told a capacity meeting in the Chamber of Commerce board room his offer would "give you the opportunity of having what you wish."

He detailed the selling price as $50,000 for the land (90 acres); $125,000 for the buildings, and $25,000 for the franchise. No negotiations for sale have been held and the track would not be leased.

The proposal came after the Racing Commission heard briefs from businessmen, sportsmen and interested parties in which they unanimously protested the transfer application.

In the main the spokesmen claimed the transfer would:

1. Mean a grave economic loss to the hotel, motel, restaurant trade as well as general business;

2. Seriously threaten the embryo breeding industry;

3. Represent a breach of faith to racing fans on Vancouver Island; and,

4. Result in a lack of confidence by the racing public in the existing track ownership and in future operators.

After the hour and a half meeting, Racing Commission chairman Glen McDonald and secretary Ken McConnell said a decision will be handed down next week.

Mr. McDonald told the meeting the commission would have to give "considerable attention" to the submission of lawyer Gerald Lauder, representing the Victoria Hotelmen's Association and the Dominion Hotel.

Act Required

He made these points:

1. Sandown racing dates can only be changed by an act of the provincial legislature, not the Racing Commission.

2. The Racing Regulations Act provides that "additional" days of racing may be approved but dates cannot be substituted.

3. The Racing Commission is not empowered to change the Act; to deal with race meetings; or, to recommend an order-in-council providing for the change as applied for by Mr. Randall.

Mr. McDonald said he did not wish to give his opinion on the powers of the commission.

Reviewing the application, sought by Mr. Randall because he claims a decline in mutual play at Vancouver might be accentuated at Sandown (he claimed a loss of $5,704 on a handle of over $800,000 in 1959) Mr. McDonald said the commission could conceivably:

Remove the Island racing dates: "Leaving Sandown dead;"

Recommend to the legislature that the application be approved; or,

Recommend the lifting of Sandown dates without having them added to the Exhibition Park meeting.

Mr. Lauder said that Mr. Randall does not have to operate Sandown but "I submit that the commission has the power to name someone else to conduct the Sandown meeting."

Wouldn't Ship

Even if the application is refused there remains the possibility that horsemen would not ship to Sandown.

W. J. "Bill" Lohead, B.C. president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, said he couldn't see "how the horsemen could operate."

"Everything is higher here," he said. "For the few who would make money, many more would go home broke."

Mr. Lohead said 1960 has been a "bad year for horsemen and a bad year for operators. B.C. Turf (Lansdowne) will lose nearly $120,000. It will be nip and tuck if Mr. Randall makes money."

If racing is to survive in B.C., he said, there must be a reduction in the 10 per cent government tax on every dollar wagered.

"The 21 per cent taken from every dollar bet (10 per cent by the government, 9 per cent by the operators for purses, 1 1/2 per cent to the horsemen and 1/4 per cent to the federal government) is the highest in the world."

Asked by Mr. McDonald if horsemen would race at Sandown if the transfer was refused, the HBPA officials said the decision would have to be made at a membership meeting.

Dates Published

Holding a card published before the season by the Vancouver Thoroughbred Association, Mr. McDonald said: "The dates for the entire season including Sandown have been published. There's a moral question here. Who is the Vancouver Thoroughbred Association?"

"It is made up, equally by B.C. Turf and the Ascot Jockey Club," said Mr. Hoskin.

"Is it fair to suggest Randall published these dates?" asked Mr. McDonald.

"Yes, it is," said Mr. Hoskin. Two other factors were brought out at the meeting.

Answering a question by Stuart Keate about an "impost" to Canadian horsemen at U.S. tracks, HBPA secretary Hoskin admitted the U.S. income tax department deducts 15 per cent of all purse monies from non-residents.

Leslie Fox told the commission that a "moral issue is involved."

Pointing to the 88 days of racing Vancouver would enjoy if the move is approved, he said: "Regional allotting of dates was based on the premise that only so much racing is good for any community."

Saturation Point

The saturation point in Vancouver is conceded to be 80 days.

Main points of the briefs submitted:

D. J. Humphries: "There will be terrific disappointment among Island racegoers if the application is approved."

Sandown facilities are atrocious... Let the Randall's spend some money on Sandown."

J. E. Austin, president, Victoria and Vicinity Auto Courts Association: "The move would be most unfair and costly to our members who have based their plans and money on an extension of the tourist season by the Sandown meeting."

Fred W. Martin, Auto Courts and Resorts Association: "We have a $5,000,000 investment and we look for Sandown to help our operations."

The new ferries bring metropolitan Vancouver to our doorstep and the stepped-up Washington State ferry service should mean greater attendance."

Mr. Lauder: "The task of the racing commission is to advance racing and breeding, not retard it."

"The breeding industry is growing but it must have racing here to develop."

M. R. Eaton, hotel, motel and business operator, Sidney: "Vancouver race meets are not paying off because they are saturated; the situation is different in Sidney."

Only race meet of the year held when the weather is generally better than Vancouver."

Sandown has shown steady growth over the last four years, and with the new ferry service there is every reason to believe this year will be the best yet."

Ernie Peden, feed dealer: "The breeding and training of horses provides a livelihood for many Island people."

They would suffer appreciably if the meet was transferred."

COUNCIL INSTRUCTS COMMITTEE

Tougher Smoke Bylaw

TRAIN NOT THAT FAST!

IPSWICH, England (UPI)—Railwaymen finally admitted today there must be a mistake in the printed timetable. Since June 12 the 1.29 p.m. train has been arriving at its next stop 35 minutes before it leaves Ipswich.

Steps Taken To Taller Apartments

City council Thursday took the first steps towards allowing luxury skyscraper apartments in the city.

On recommendation of the advisory planning commission, it gave three readings to a by-law creating new zoning classification which will allow construction of apartment buildings up to 12 storeys high.

It also designated several lots in the Douglas-Simcoe area as the first to come under the new classification.

A public hearing was scheduled for the Aug. 18 council meeting when the bylaw comes up for final reading.

LOTS SCARCE

Up to now, four-storey apartments were the highest permitted in the city. But the planning commission said that as city lots become scarce, there are about 30 acres in the city that would make desirable sites for high, luxury apartment buildings.

But council was told site sizes for the tall apartments would be scaled so that no "solid wall" of skyscrapers could be erected.

City council Thursday instructed the smoke abatement advisory committee to recommend regulations for a tougher anti-smoke bylaw.

But first it made the committee's acting chairman an official member.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow explained that he had accepted the pro tem post when other members of the committee were not willing to assume the chairmanship.

He said until the situation was regularized, the committee was unable to bring in recommendations. When no one else offered to step in, council officially appointed Ald. Edgelow to the committee after creating the vacancy by dropping Police Chief John Blackstock from membership.

HARDSHIP

"There is a legitimate complaint about the problem and our bylaw is inadequate," said Ald. Edgelow recommending a new bylaw be drafted although he warned there might be hardship resulting for some industries.

"Does council want us to cure this matter or does council want to close our eyes to it?" he asked.

"Well, we certainly can't do that," replied Mayor Percy Scurrell. "You will bring in a report with definite recommendations."

Ald. Elmer McEwen said although the present smoke bylaw has been in effect nine years and it was admitted that there was a problem, he had seen no prosecutions.

"Has the smoke inspector made any attempt to enforce the bylaw?" he demanded.

Mayor Scurrell replied that part-time smoke inspector Thomas Walker had worked with plant operators "in a quiet way."

"I don't think he has wanted to be, shall I say, too drastic. He has attempted to enforce the bylaw in his own way."

"But the truth is that an intolerable quantity of ash can be thrown up under the present bylaw. That has to be corrected."

GEORGE MICHELL
... never misses

AT EXHIBITION

90 Years' Perfect Attendance

Saanich pioneer George T. Michell, who has never missed the Saanich Exhibition since the year of his birth, plans to attend the exhibition again this September.

"I'll be there," he said today. "I never miss it."

Mr. Michell, who celebrated his 90th birthday Wednesday, first attended the fair as a babe-in-arms 90 years ago and later as president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society directed the affairs of the exhibition.

OLDEST FAIR

The fair founded 92 years ago is the oldest west of the Great Lakes.

Born in 1870, the pioneer resident saw the population of Saanich expand from several hundred to more than 45,000.

He and his wife were married on July 9, 1896 at St. Saviour's Church, Victoria West.

On his birthday, more than 70 relatives gathered at his home to honor the pioneer and Mrs. Michell.

professional artists now living on Vancouver Island or the Gulf Islands, and those living elsewhere but who had at least two years of residence in the area.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood will open the show Oct. 6, and has agreed to act as honorary chairman.

All artists and art groups in the district concerned will be approached, and entry forms will be available shortly.

Well-known B.C. artists will be selected to choose paintings for the exhibition, which will be the first jury show to be held on Vancouver Island outside of Victoria.

Awards up to $200 and honorable mentions will be given at the discretion of the jury. Mrs. F. Bottner, president of the art group, has said that if the venture is a success it will become an annual event.

Aldermen Bristle at Bylaw

Aldermen bristled Thursday when they were told they could not get copies of a draft sign bylaw which had been discussed by city merchants. "There's something funny about this whole sign bylaw," said Ald. A. I. Curtis when a letter endorsing the draft bylaw was read to council from the retail merchants group of the Chamber of Commerce. Ald. Curtis said the draft had been mentioned in the press and on the radio as well as being discussed by merchants "but no member of council has seen it yet."

This weekend—from van, the latin and shearing sounds of the the scene 1306 wharf reservations EV 5-8143

"I think the building department is going out behind our backs to sell this bylaw and I don't like it," he said. Public works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said he would see that a copy is sent to each alderman. Both he and Ald. Hugh Ramsay pointed out that the original draft had gone to council and then the whole question was referred back to committee. Ald. J. L. W. McLean and city officials had been instructed to meet with sign company representatives and merchants to redraft the regulations.

Council approved a recommendation to take $35,000 out of tax sales land account to obtain matching provincial government grants for road improvements.

The money will go toward repaving of Quadra Street, construction of parking bays on Douglas and purchase of property for widening the Johnson-Wharf intersection. But the transfer was opposed by Ald. Arthur Dowell who said department heads "make a grab" for the land sales account every time it accumulates money.

However, Mayor Percy Scurrah said that although he disliked strings attached to the government dollar-for-dollar offer and hated "to see the land account raided," it was too good a chance to miss to obtain some help in making long-sought improvements.

Aldermen approved an extra grant of $1,500 to Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee to head off a deficit in maintenance of Beaver-Elk Lake beaches. Saanich is expected to contribute an equal amount.

U.K. Channel Tunnel Firm To Take Risk

LONDON (CP)—The Channel Tunnel Company announced Thursday it is prepared to accept virtually all financial responsibility for a tunnel linking England and France.

Company chairman Leo D'Erianger said at a press conference that "if governments can be moved by reasoned argument," traffic will move through a channel tunnel by 1965.

He said the new proposal was submitted to the British and French governments. D'Erianger said the company was prepared to provide the £24,000,000 for terminal facilities, bringing its total investment to £130,000,000.

'MURDER DEAL' DETAILS HIGHLIGHT FINCH TRIAL

Ex-Convict Haggled Over Price

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Minnesota ex-convict was called back today to testify about his claim of bargaining with Carole Tregoff over the price to kill her co-defendant's wife, socialite Barbara Finch.

Exhaustive testimony by fast-talking John Patrick Cody, 29, was a dramatic high point in the second murder trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his red-haired mistress, Carole, 23.

Cody, a slickly handsome ladies' man and an admitted liar, testified Thursday that Carole wanted to pay him only $1,000 "to do away" with Finch's 33-year-old wife. The state claims Finch and Carole killed Mrs. Finch themselves July 18, 1959, when Cody squandered a $320 to $330 "down payment" for the killing and then backed out of the deal.

Cody was brought here on "loan" from Minneapolis, where he faces trial in a separate forgery charge, so he could repeat the tale of bargaining over the price of murder he told in the first three-month trial. That trial ended March 12 when jurors were unable to agree on a verdict.

"I told Carole if she had a job to be done I'd do it," Cody testified Thursday. "I said I'd need $2,000."

Cody said the bargaining took place a month before the slaying and in a restaurant used as a college hangout in Las Vegas.

MISSILE SUBS TO GET USE OF U.K. PORTS?

LONDON (AP)—The foreign office said today Britain and the United States are discussing the use of British ports for the "replenishment" of American rocket-firing submarines.

A spokesman told reporters at a press conference agreement has yet to be reached. He made it clear that this stage London and Washington are not discussing provision of British bases for American nuclear-powered submarines that are being developed to carry the Polaris missile.

It seemed clear, however, that Prime Minister Macmillan's government, in keeping with its general policy of close strategic co-operation with the United States, has agreed in principle to provide full supply and port facilities for the American submarines.

School Milk Plan Favored by Farmers

Directors of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture representing Canada's farm industry, are unanimously in favor of a national school milk program.

The directors wound up their annual four-day meeting at the Empress Hotel Thursday.

Dr. H. H. Hannam, president, said the federation will back a Dairy Farmers' of Canada program for milk distribution in schools across the nation.

Frank Lutes, president of the dairy organization and a delegate at the meeting, disclosed that dairymen will submit a milk distribution program for schools to the federal government within six months.

The program calls on federal and provincial governments to share costs for sale of milk at low prices in schools.

Milk would be provided free to children, who could not afford to buy it.

"The distribution of milk, some of it free, in schools, was started in England during the depression days of the thirties, and has since spread to many countries," he said.

"There are many undernourished children in Canada, more than people care to admit," he said. "Such a program would be in the interest of national health."

He said schools in the United States have a good system for providing children with milk.

"Milk is sold to the children at a low price and those who can't afford it get it free," he said. "It is so arranged that the children who buy milk don't know who gets it free."

Duncan Builder Not Notified Of Coast Race

J. Aubrey Ash of Duncan, builder of "Miss Van Isle," an entry in last year's Ketchikan-Seattle outboard race, will not enter the competition this year due to lack of notice.

"We didn't know until a month before the race that it was going to be held. I can't build a boat in a month," Mr. Ash said.

The race will be held Aug. 18-21. He had hoped to build a boat that would get up to 50 miles per hour. Last year's entry, navigated by Harold Ball and designed by Vancouver naval architect John Brandimayr, went "only 38 miles per hour" and finished second in a special division.

Furling of Flag To Mark Mishaps

The construction industry will lower the flag on projects which have accidents between Aug. 13 and 20.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi will open a special safety week Aug. 13 at the Workmen's Compensation Board offices in Vancouver.

The accident prevention drive is sponsored by the Heavy Construction Association of B.C.

Flags will be hoisted over 118 construction projects throughout the province involving some 5,000 men.

If there's an accident on any of the jobs, its flag will be hauled down.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Harold Jackson, aged 9, of Eureka, Kansas, for his question:

How Was Sandstone Formed?

Sandstone is a gritty rock which comes in many shades of brown, grey, bone white and chestnut red. Compared with, say, granite, it is a very soft stone. It is porous and able to drink up to a quarter of its weight in water. Sometimes it gets soaked with rain water and along comes the frost. The rain water swells as it becomes ice. This cracks and chips the sandstone. Because of its softness, wind and weather are able to wear it away. Sometimes a river wears a deep gorge through layers of sandstone. We see these colorful canyons of sandstone in the Painted Desert of Arizona, in the Grand Canyon, and other showy gorges of the western United States.

These beds of sandstone started a life of adventure countless millions of years ago. Like all the rocks, they are made from minerals and on windy deserts.

Only Hard Minerals Survive

As a rule, only hard minerals such as quartz and calcium live long enough to become grains of sand. The softer minerals are usually dissolved.

In times past, the sea has often washed over the dry land to make shallow swamps. Sometimes the beds of the swamps were covered with a soupy mixture of sand, gravel and muddy water. When the seas went back, these old swamp beds were left to become dry land. The soupy mixture dried out and became layers of sandstone.

Sandstone is a mixture of gritty grains of sand and gravel, all cemented together. The cement was formed from the minerals which were dissolved in the muddy water. Many sandstones are cemented with lime or iron oxide. The hardest are cemented with silica, the mineral from which most sand is made.

The colors of sandstone come from impurities in the mixture. Iron oxide makes the rock brown or chestnut red. Flecks of mica make it glitter with a snowy frosting. We may find a shell embedded in the rock, which tells us that the mixture was once the floor of an ancient sea. There may be a dinosaur footprint, which shows that the mixture was only partly dry when these giant reptiles walked the earth.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Yulia Borisova, one of Russia's great glamor gals, is in America showing her pretty legs to photographers.

But I'd like to assure Mr. K that it was accidental. When Yulia was shown her picture, she blushed, giggled, and dropped her head on the shoulder of her co-star, Yuri Yakovlev.

"You sell sex-appeal?" I asked Yulia as she sat toying with some watermelon at the Russian Tea Room.

"He asks, are you a 'sex-bomb'?" spoke up Yuri Yakovlev, who knows some English. Yulia Borisova again turned pink—the same shade as the French lipstick she was wearing—babbled, "Nyet! Nyet!"

The State Dept. interpreter lady with them explained: "It's the first time she ever heard the expression." She says sex appeal has nothing to do with acting. Two different things.

"She says she'd rather resemble Sarah Bernhardt than Brigitte Bardot," the interpreter lady said. "She wants to know if Marilyn Monroe has sex appeal."

"They see her very little, Brigitte Bardot they see more." "I'm sure you know all about Zsa Zsa Gabor," I said.

Yulia and Yuri stared at each other in wonder. "Zsa Zsa Gabor," they repeated. No, they never had heard of her. Stars of the screen version of Dostoyevsky's epic, "The Idiot," they are here on a cultural exchange, bound for Washington and Los Angeles. It turned out that the male half of the team even knows about such capitalistic inventions as measurements.

"Who's the actress who has her bust insured?" inquired Yuri.

"Evelyn West?" I said. Yuri nodded vigorously. "His wife asked him to see if she is real!" the interpreter smiled.

"You know Arthur Miller?" I asked.

"Artor Meeler? Da da da da!" they nodded. They know his plays well. But they were astonished to know that he is the husband of Marilyn Monroe.

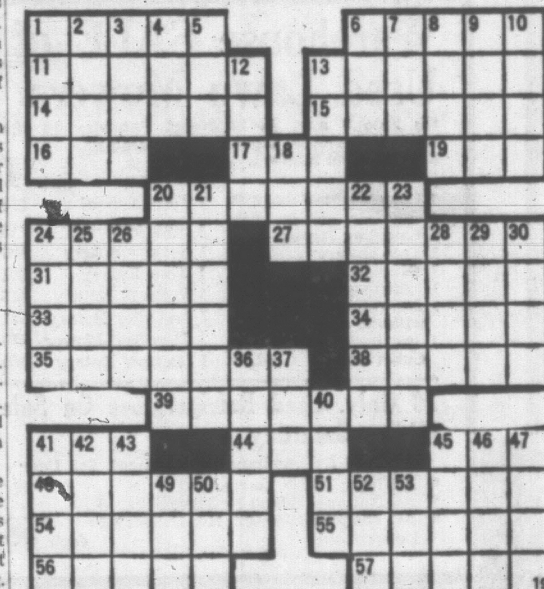

They've been sightseeing, they liked the Lever Bldg., Greenwich Village, Yuri even liked the American girls. They have drunk vodka here—Russian vodka supplied by Russian diplomats.

"I tried your drink—wheesky," Yuri said. "You like it?" "uri spowled. "It don't like me!"

City police court today was filled with Chinese for start of the trial of Lee Yon, charged with keeping a gaming house.

Civil Defence
Zones Set
For Province

B.C. today was split into six civil defence zones, each to have a director to co-ordinate organization in the event of an attack.

Victoria is one of the zones, but its director hasn't been named. An appointment is expected "shortly" said Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Nanaimo is headquarters of the western zone, with Harold C. Snider as director.

Retired Lieutenant-Colonel John Littlehales has been appointed Greater Vancouver's zone chief.

Other zones are east, north and central B.C.
"This move will mean more efficient provincial-wide civil defence organization," said Mr. Black, "and assure B.C. with a more direct link with headquarters."

They overflowed into the corridors and even on the fire escape at the courtroom's rear.

Const. Lorne Shandley, first witness in the case, testified that in company with other city policemen and detectives he entered premises at 561 Fisgard at 12.20 a.m. July 17 and through a door at the rear of the premises to 1628 Government.

Up the stairs on the "mezzanine" there were a number of Chinese, three mah jong tables and three paigow (domino) tables.

The accused, he said, was sitting in a "slot" on the paigow table with a cash box in front of him. Both in and under the box was the sum of $42.15.

"GRAB MONEY"

Const. Shandley said he was "four or five" feet from the table before he was first noticed, and the Chinese attempted to "grab the money."

Trial of Lee Yon, who had earlier pleaded not guilty, was continuing. He is represented by George Gregory.

Meanwhile, 14 Chinese found-ins are also slated for trial.

Trial of Tommie Louie, also charged with keeping a gaming house, was adjourned to Oct. 7.

ON THE ROAD TO THE ISLES are 78 Scots, all members of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, who left Patricia Bay at 9.30 a.m. today aboard a TCA Super Constellation for Prestwick, Scotland. They will spend six weeks away before returning.

Aid Asked Here

British Columbia's contribution to the Olympic Games fund is $2,000 shy of its $19,000 objective and the provincial government is being asked for the remaining sum.

Bob Osborne, of Vancouver, acting-secretary of the fund-raising B.C. Amateur Sports Council, says cities throughout B.C. have been giving generously.

Vancouver donated $4,000, left over from the British Empire Games here in 1954, and the provincial government added another $4,000.

Subscriptions from individuals, industry and other provincial cities have reached $9,000.

BCASC officials say, however, that few contributions have been received from private individuals in Victoria and city council recently turned down a request for a donation.

Meanwhile, the national committee announced in Montreal this week it is still $36,000 short of the $211,000 needed to take Canada's 124 athletes and officials to Rome.

The team leaves Montreal Aug. 17.

'Worst Bread
Baked
In Canada'

Canada and the United States are among the greatest wheat producing countries but make the "worst bread in the world," according to William J. Parker, president of the Manitoba Pool Elevators.

Mr. Parker, a delegate to the annual directors meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture here, fears Canada's younger generation will never know what good bread tastes like unless they go to Europe.

"This may shock some people, but it's true," he said. "The European product is far superior to our own standard bread."

He said Canadian wheat is not to blame. The Europeans use it to make their bread.

One of the reasons for the good bread is that less ingredients are extracted from the flour.

"Perhaps our bread could be improved through a government program of education," he said. "Maybe the government could encourage some national and reputable bakery to produce a more palatable product."

Oak Bay Liberals
Name Chairman
For Campaign

Liberals in Oak Bay today announced that former Oak Bay reeve W. L. Woodhouse has been appointed campaign chairman for provincial candidate Alan Macfarlane.

Appointed honorary chairman for the campaign is Hon. R. W. Mayhew, former ambassador to Japan and ex-Liberal fisheries minister.

Mr. Macfarlane is running for the seat vacated by the death of fellow-Liberal P. A. "Archie" Gibbs.

Mr. Woodhouse called on the electors not to "splinter" their anti-government votes.

Other members of the campaign committee are:

Oak Bay councillor Allan L. Cox, Mrs. Margaret McLung, Mrs. Muriel Johnston, Arthur Burns, Bob Siddall, Geoffrey Ellis, Charles Nelles, Kenneth Wills, Jack Maltman, Dr. Harold Turner, Alderman Arthur Dowell and Robert Hutcheson.

GREGORY OFFER

Reserved Seats
For Socreds

Victoria Liberals will "reserve" seats for their Social Credit opponents at every public meeting in the upcoming election campaign.

MLA George Gregory today renewed his challenge to the Victoria Socreds to meet him in debate on campaign issues. The campaign is expected to start in the latter half of August, with polling day in mid-September.

Works Minister W. N. Chant and MLA Donald Smith Thursday said Mr. Gregory's challenge was calculated only to attract attention to his cause.

"We propose to have seats on the platform reserved for them at each one of our meetings in case they change their minds," Mr. Gregory said today.

Mr. Gregory said he wanted Victoria voters to hear the election issues debated.

Four-Lane
Route
To Pat Bay?

The provincial government plans to widen Patricia Bay Highway to four lanes, Ald. Millard Mooney hinted to city council Thursday.

A Social Credit member who unsuccessfully contested the party nominations here this week, he won council approval for a request to the highways department to avoid widening the highway on the west side where it skirts Elk Lake.

The Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee pointed out that the last time the highway was widened and relocated, 600 yards of public land along the lakeside was lost for bathing purposes.

"Do you know whether they plan to widen the highway on the lakeside?" asked Mayor Percy Scourrah.

"Well, you're putting me on the spot and I don't want to say," replied Ald. Mooney. "But I'm quite confident that we will see a four-lane highway in that area before very long."

40-Year Company
Leaves in November

Forty years operation in Victoria will come to an end for Sidney Roofing and Paper Company on Nov. 30.

The remaining equipment, a machine which produces roofing felt and building paper, will be dismantled and transferred to the main Burnaby plant.

Future of the Sidney plant has not been determined by the parent company, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. The company is studying possible uses for the plant.

The decision to centralize Sidney operations at the 75-acre Burnaby plant was made early today when the parent company gave the green light to the move which will cost an estimated $500,000.

Had the decision not been made by MBPW, the Sidney operation would have been continued another year, said a company spokesman. He explained that the lone machine operating at Sidney can only be dismantled in the December-January slack season.

Most of the 25 employees will be offered work at Burnaby. The move is expected to take two months.

Sidney Roofing shipped its first rolls of roofing from a plant at Sidney in 1914. In 1920 the company moved to its present location on the Victoria waterfront.

Sidney Roofing has entered negotiations with the city for renewal of a water purchase agreement until Nov. 30. The present agreement expires Sunday.

Esquimalt Voters
Get Arena Plans

Thousands of pamphlets were mailed out to Esquimalt ratepayers Thursday explaining details of the $400,000 sports arena development that will be decided by a referendum Aug. 13.

The pamphlets said the arena, to be built beside Bullen Park if approved by voters, will give the municipality "the largest exhibition area under one roof in Greater Victoria."

The building would contain: a standard size hockey rink with seating for 1,750 persons; a concrete floor and modern ice surfacing and flooding equipment; a curling rink with six ice sheets and an observation lounge; snack bar; six rest rooms; locker rooms and change rooms; skate shop, and storage rooms.

"This sports centre will be for everybody," the pamphlets said. "No fee to join, no dues; simply pay as you play either singly or in groups for the following activities — public skating, hockey, curling, lacrosse, figure skating, fairs, dances and exhibitions."

Operations of the centre at no cost to taxpayers was assured, the pamphlets said.

Move to Saanich
Seen for Hydro

Head Office Building
May Be Sold as City Hall

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

B.C. Hydro is considering selling its head office here and building new headquarters in Saanich, the Times learned today.

The Blanshard Street building may be offered to Victoria as a new City Hall.

B.C. Hydro officials wouldn't comment on either report today, but they have been actively studying their accommodation problem for several months.

Some 300 persons are employed at the head offices. Besides the Blanshard building, four floors are rented in the Weiler Building on Government Street.

That site would, however, tie in with the general build-up of the area into a government centre, with the new Law Courts across the street, possibility of an auditorium there eventually, and the provincial government offices nearby.

NO COMMENT

City officials are understood to be interested in the idea, although they haven't commented directly.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said the B.C. Hydro quarters are "inadequate."

He did not know what plans were for alleviating the situation.

If the city didn't buy the Blanshard Building, it is also being considered as a good site for expanding provincial government offices.

Hydro's lease on the Weiler Building will expire this year. It is understood the owners want a long-term agreement. This, coupled with lack of space and possibility of staff expansion for new Hydro projects is a major reason for considering a new headquarters.

FOR PEKING OPERA

Land-Sea-Air
Festival Visit

A bus-boat-air lift to take Victorians to a performance of the Peking Opera at the Vancouver Festival on a special Victoria night, Aug. 12, has been organized.

The party will be led by Mayor Percy Scourrah and Mrs. Scourrah and members of the council have been invited to attend. The entire group will be met and greeted by Mayor Tom Alsbury of Vancouver and will be escorted to a specially reserved section of the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

The all-inclusive package deal has been organized by local members of the Vancouver Festival Society and includes transportation to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre via bus and government ferry, transportation to Vancouver International Airport and a return via TCA and bus to City Hall.

Dinner aboard the ferry would be included in the ticket, as would top-price tickets to the performance of the Peking Opera. Total cost for the evening's entertainment would be $15.75 with tickets available at Featherstone Travel Service Limited. Anyone wishing to attend with the group and who does not want to travel in the party may purchase tickets at Eaton's ticket office.

Mayor Scourrah selected the Peking Opera as the performance of his choice for a Victoria night. It is one of the most spectacular presentations of the entire Vancouver Festival in spite of the fact it has little to do with opera in the accepted sense. It comprises a performance of jugglers, dancers, magicians and acrobats in the finest tradition of the Chinese theatre and is an international favorite.

The Legislative Building fountain disgorged its own blithe spirit Thursday night—before interested police arrived.

Police reported a "female tourist" had been disporting in the lighted waters—dancing around on tip-toe.

She was clad in a negligee over a bathing suit and carried an umbrella.

A handful of interested tourists watched.

"She did it on a dare," said a friend afterwards, terming her an "extremely extrovert type of person."

Crisp Salads and Fruit Ideal for Summer Eating

By PENNY SAVER

Vegetable stores and local weather conditions both seem fully aware of the fact that this is National Salad Week. Never have salad ingredients been as low priced as they are right now. Huge lettuces are selling downtown at only 15 cents each; cucumbers are a "steal" at five for 25 cents while succulent red tomatoes are on "special" at two pounds for 35 cents. For variety in salads, or as a filling for light sandwiches at tea time, why not try some of the local watercress that's priced at 10 cents a bunch?

You can almost imagine yourself driving past the fruit stands in the Okanagan Valley when you see the mounds of colorful fruit carried in every fruit store.

There are plentiful stocks of apples. Those who love to sink their teeth into juicy Winesaps will be delighted to hear that these are now selling at six for 49 cents while large Gravenstein apples look good at 35 cents for six. Bing cherries are now down to 29 cents a pound and another "special" on bananas brings their price to 33 cents for two pounds. You can get a tray of eight peaches for 59 cents.

No one wants to spend more time than necessary in the kitchen during this glorious weather, so why not get one of the barbecued chickens that sell at $1.98? These can be picked up while still warm and average about three pounds. Store assistant tells me that they sold 107 in one day so it's advisable to ring and make sure that there's one on order for you when you pop in to pick it up.

If your fancy leans towards southern-fried chicken, this can be bought at $1.10 a pound. As a change, there are always the ready-to-eat hams that sell at 63 cents a pound.

No matter how warm the weather children can never resist lure of candies. A good buy is the two-pound package of English toffees that sells at $1.50. I gave up trying to count the different varieties in this mix—there are dozens! There's also a three-pound package, priced at $2.25. Store owner tells me that many tourists come back, year after year, for these. So, if you're off on a holiday soon, I'd suggest you take along some for the trip and some for your hosts.

Looking exactly like sea-washed pebbles are soft-centred English candies that sell for $1 a pound. These would make a novel and delicious gift.

DEAR ABBY

Swing More, Talk Less!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been playing golf with another married couple lately. I have played golf with women, but never with men.

My husband never swears around the house or anywhere else, but the minute we start to play golf he swears a blue streak.

Not wanting to embarrass him in front of the other couple, I wait until we get home to call him on it. He says he will cut it out, but the next time we play golf, it's the same story all over again. Can you recommend a cure?

WIFE OF SWEATER DEAR WIFE: Tell him to improve his game and he'll have less to swear about.

DEAR ABBY: We have neighbors who suffer from partial deafness. They can afford hearing aids but apparently don't have them.

We live in a row of brick houses and our porches are connected. These people will keep their front door wide open and blast their TV so loud that you can't hear yourself talk.

I am unable to go places as I am not well. I enjoy my swing on my front porch. It is the only pleasure I have. I know they read your column (because I hear them screaming it to each other when the paper comes). Won't you print this? If you know a "round-about" way to solve my problem, I would be willing to try it.

DEAR DISTURBED: Why don't you pay them a friendly visit and tell them their TV is distressingly loud and disturbing? The shortest way around something is usually right through it. It will probably get results faster and with fewer hard feelings than the "round-about" ways.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "THE OTHER WOMAN" made me laugh. You probably won't print this, but here goes: You say, "When the flame dies, and it will..." Well, I have gone with a married man for 18 years and the flame hasn't died yet. I am 50 and he is 52 and I'll love him till the day I die. His wife gets all the money and I get all the love. And I wouldn't trade with her.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "Being outside and enjoying country life has meant a lot to me. So I have always worn shorts, slacks and the like. Now that I am older it is a question as to whether or not I should continue to do so. I am 38, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh 155 pounds. I have a medium frame. My measurements are 38-28-40 inches. Would I be out of place wearing shorts when grocery shopping and such? What do you think?"

A. I think it depends much more on the figure than on the age of the woman. If your figure is really good, I see no reason for not wearing them although I never have thought they are attractive on the street. Many middle-aged women can wear slacks attractively because they still have their girlish figure, but cannot wear shorts because of varicose veins.

You are not really overweight but are on the plump side. There is nothing more unattractive than a woman in shorts if she is fat or has flabby legs. Why not wear culottes? They are very fashionable now.

Q. "I would like to know if I am overweight. All my life I have been called 'skinny'. In the last few years I have gained 20 pounds. Some people tell me how well I look; how becoming it is. Others say I had better begin watching my weight."

"I weigh 116 pounds and am 5 feet 2 inches tall. My mea-surments are 34½, 24 and 36 inches. When I talk about going on a diet my husband says I am foolish because I have never looked so good. Maybe he says this because he is about 30 pounds overweight himself."

A. Your husband has no ulterior motives, he's right. Your weight is perfect for your height if you have a small build. If you have a medium build, you are still underweight. I can believe that you look better than you ever have in your life.

Q. "My collar bones stick out terribly. What can I do about it? I am ashamed to wear a bathing suit or a low-necked dress."

A. If you are underweight (usually this is the case), a gain in poundage will help. Exercise to develop the neck muscles also will be an aid. Posture also plays a part. If you slump forward your collar bones will become more prominent.

Ice skating at Sun Valley, Idaho, this week are, from left, Jack McBeath, John Clark and Mrs. and Mrs. Doug Doidge, all of Victoria, who are pictured on the outdoor summer rink at the mile-high resort. They are guests at the Challenger Inn.

Mrs. James Bignore, 3556 Richmond Road, wishes to announce the engagement of her only daughter, Judith Mary, to Mr. Donald Robert Kenneth Easton, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Easton, 2536 Wootton Crescent. The wedding will take place Saturday, August 20, at 2.30 p.m. in Oaklands Chapel. Mr. Huron Sheppard, Duncan, will officiate. (Picture by S. H. Draper.)

Victoria Couple Make Home at Whitehorse

Whitehorse, Y.T., will be the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murray Schneider, whose marriage took place on the anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peris Atkinson, 816 Darwin Road. Groom's parents are Mrs. E. Schneider, 667 Ralph Street, and the late E. Schneider. White lace over taffeta formed the ballerina-length gown and jacket worn by the bride. The jacket had lily point sleeves and stand-up collar. Pearls outlined the white satin headpiece that held the shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis. A turquoise taffeta ballerina-length gown was worn by the bridesmaid, Miss Sheila Brown, with tiny velvet turquoise bandeau, covered with flowers, and dainty net veil. Her bouquet was of pink gladioli and white stephanotis.

Ronald Atkinson, brother of the bride, came from Ottawa, Ont., to be best man.

Thirty-five guests attended a family dinner at Chez Marcel, followed by a reception in Club Sirocco. Receiving guests, the bride's mother chose a rose colored dress and matching jacket with a small rose hat. She had white carnations en corsage. A blue crepe dress and white accessories was worn by the groom's mother. Corsage was of pink carnations.

Bill Alexander sang "How Great Thou Art" and "Because" during the reception. Music was played by Mrs. Norma Allan.

Pink candles in crystal candelabra and pink and white carnations in crystal vases flanked the three-tier wedding cake that centred the bride's table. John Lupion, an old friend of the family, proposed the toast.

Local Singer Sets Sights On A Full Time Musical Career

By PAT DUFOUR

Words of popular song, "Five foot two, eyes of blue," well describe Roseanna Chapman, new singer with Len Acre's orchestra at the Empress Hotel. Add to that, honey blonde hair and a stage personality that can charm male guests into such remarks as, "I always considered myself a hard-bitten type but this girl is tops in my book. She has everything!" and you have a fair idea of the 20-year-old who was chosen over all other applicants at an audition six weeks ago because of her "talent, looks and pleasing personality."

MUSICAL FAMILY

Born in Halifax, Roseanna has lived in Victoria most of her young life. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Chapman, 1739 Bay Street, she comes by her talent honestly. Her father, himself a musician, encouraged the family's love of music. So much so, that apart from Roseanna, two of her sisters, Daphne and Anne, have distinguished themselves in the field of dancing, and a brother, Donnie, is also a singer of no mean repute.

Years ago, Roseanna knew where she wanted to go. She started singing lessons while she was a Grade VII student at Junior High. Convinced that modelling would help her, she invested in a course while she was still at Victoria High School. Altogether, she spent five years, both here and in Vancouver, learning to "walk tall" and other social graces. "I really think it paid off," she says. "It certainly helped me not to be afraid of people."

DRAMA BY MAIL

This far-seeing young singer also studied drama through a correspondence course. Recently Roseanna has had singing engagements at four of Vancouver's leading night clubs.

The many attractive gowns needed for her appearances before the public, works no hardship with this attractive young lass. "I've always adored pretty clothes," she says, "one thing, though, I never wear anything but pastels."

How does the new starlet react to her listeners at the hotel and, how do they react to her?

"I love to talk to them. They're always so wonderful to me. One visitor from Texas wanted to adopt me."

As an afterthought, she added, "he was there with his wife, of course."

Roseanna still supplements her income by working as a clerk in a downtown store, but she has a stage name already planned for the day when she becomes a full-time singer.

"My first name is Claire and I would like to be known as Roseanna Claire."

If the day comes when Roseanna's dream comes true—it's safe to bet that there'll be a lot of Victorians rooting for the girl from their hometown.

Roseanna tries on one of her favorite pastel dresses—this time, in sea-green, and wonders if her audience will like it as much as she does.

AURA OF ELEGANCE

Princess Margaret's 'New Look', Simple, Uncluttered

LONDON (Reuters)—British fashion circles are buzzing about the new aura of elegance Princess Margaret has acquired with her marriage to Antony—Armstrong-Jones.

Starting with her simple wedding gown, devoid of crusted embroidery formerly considered an indispensable feature of the Royal Family's grand occasion gowns, the Princess has found a new look best described as sleek.

Fashion experts feel that for the first time she really deserves to be called one of the world's smartest women.

The basis of the Princess' new look is a completely uncluttered line which probably owes much to the camera-man's eye of her husband, trained to see everything in terms of form.

PREFERS PLAIN SHEATH

The princess now prefers plain fabrics and prints, dead plain sheath-dresses to buttons and bows.

Her current wardrobe makes her look taller. For instance, a navy-blue silk suit she wore for Ascot races and a school prize-giving has a short, boxy jacket which stops just below the waist. This gives the petite princess a long-legged look.

The suit is collarless, like most of Princess Margaret's new clothes. This, with the new short hairdo adopted for her honeymoon, also helps the uncluttered look, as do the brimless, toque hats she has been wearing.

The colors worn now by Princess Margaret are clear and definite and set off her honeymoon suntan.

At a recent Buckingham Palace garden party, Princess Margaret looked striking in a collarless cyclamen satin coat. With it she wore a frothy hat of white net scattered with roses.

Command Ball at Royal Roads

Cadets of the University naval Training Division who are in Victoria for summer training will be hosts this evening at their annual Command Ball on the quarterdeck in the Grant Block, Canadian Service College, Royal Roads.

'TAINT WORTH A FARTHING ANYMORE

LONDON (UPI) — Britain sadly said goodbye to the lowly farthing.

Anthony Barber, economic secretary to the treasury, told a hushed House of Commons the smallest coin of the realm is being withdrawn from circulation.

"It seems clear the farthing has now outlived its usefulness and the convenience of the general public could best be served by withdrawing it from the coinage," Barber said.

MANNING

HANSELL
... free man needed

Manning Draft Seen in New Socred Policy

OTTAWA (UPI)—Delegates to the Social Credit national convention today tailored a new constitution which they hoped would be a preliminary to drafting Alberta Premier E. C. Manning into the post of national party leader.

Manning, who with British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett has stayed over in the capital for the two-day top Social Credit gathering, has made no open declaration of his availability for the post of national leader for the federal general election which the Socreds expect early in 1962.

But party sources have been passing the word that it "is not inconceivable" that the Alberta premier would respond favorably to a strong movement to draft him.

The report passed swiftly through the national convention and underlay its discussion today on the adoption of a new party constitution. In deference to the calibre of personality which Manning would bring to the job, the convention agreed to leave the new leader a virtually free hand to declare and interpret party policy. It threw out a proposal which would have required the new leader to consult either the party convention or party executive on policy matters.

New Leader Would Need Free Hand

Manning himself spoke briefly against the proposal to tie the hands of any new leader on policy matters. He pointed out that new issues emerged and old issues changed so rapidly these days that it would be impossible for a leader to function effectively if he had to consult either a Dominion-wide executive or an infrequently meeting convention for instructions in policy.

E. G. Hansell of Calgary, a veteran of the federal parliament and now a member of the Alberta Legislature, told the convention:

"Upon the calibre of leader you are going to have depend all your chances of success in the national field. The win of the Conservatives in 1958 was a Diefenbaker sweep—nothing else. Unless you can get a man of calibre to similarly fire the public imagination—and a man of that calibre will not have his hands tied in policy statements—you will get nowhere."

Manning's applause to the Hansell statement was noticeable, and the delegates immediately voted to throw out the proposal to have the new leader bound in policy "formulation or interpretation" in any way.

The new constitution which the morning session adopted was federal in tone and looked forward frankly to the next general election. In addition to providing for a national deputy also provided for a deputy national leader, who is intended to be a French-speaking Canadian.

Totalitarian Policies Opposed

It approved a policy statement consisting of 14 articles, the first six of which were targeted specially at the federal field. They were:

—The Social Credit Association of Canada pledges to further a democratic free and competitive enterprise society as opposed to all totalitarian and subversive philosophies and practices.

—To adopt fiscal and monetary policies, embracing the use of the Bank of Canada, which will result in a debt free national government and a national economy with an optimum of progressive development.

—To clarify within the constitution the responsibilities of each level of government and to eliminate overlapping and condition imposing policies.

—To have evolved a co-operative revenue system for which various levels of government must accept joint responsibility and which will make possible the distribution on a reasonable formula basis of nationally acceptable basic standards of services in the fields of education, health and welfare.

—To implement economic policies to minimize inflation and maintain the purchasing power of the individual.

—To charge the government of Canada with the responsibility of providing essential social capital.

'BEST MAN AVAILABLE'

Foreign Affairs Ability Won Nomination for Lodge

By MAX FREEDMAN
Special to The Times

CHICAGO—Mr. Nixon chose Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations, as the vice-presidential candidate on the Republican ticket because he wanted the party in the election campaign to dramatize the issue of experience and responsibility in foreign affairs.

Senator Ken-Max Freedman, the Democratic candidate for the presidency, is a man of vast knowledge in world affairs despite the gibes and jeers flung at him by former governor Dewey of New York. All the same Senator Kennedy is open to criticism because he has never borne any actual responsibility for carrying out a foreign policy program. His running mate Senator Johnson is somewhat of an amateur in foreign policy, almost never speaks on this subject in the Senate except to sound a call for national unity, and prefers to intone vague and specious generalities. The Democratic Party, however, has decided that it will concentrate on foreign policy in directing its indictment against the Republican ticket.

RCAF Throw Four Aircraft Into B.C.'s Fire Battle

DAMAGED FIRE-BOMBER UNDER REPAIR

U.S. water bomber which made wheels-up landing at Kamloops Monday, plugging airstrip for almost two days, arrived at Patricia Bay Airport today where Fairley Aviation Co. started round-the-clock repair program. Plane will be serviceable by Sunday or Monday. One of first jobs was to scrape asphalt from Kamloops landing strip, seen on ground, away from damaged tank doors, fuselage and wing areas. Four-motored B-17 "Flying Fortress" needed only lifting and fitting of new propellers at Kamloops in order to fly here. Plane carries 2,000 gallons of water. (Photo by Halkett.)

Men Stand Up Machines Fail

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The men who are fighting the hundreds of forest fires in the interior of British Columbia were standing up better than their machines this week.

Forest service officials in the Kamloops district said today breakdowns of aircraft and bulldozers was hampering the dawn-to-dusk fight against fires.

Meanwhile one of two twin-rotor helicopters that were to be loaned to the forest service by the RCAF was still in Vancouver waiting for repairs. And one of two Otter amphibious planes was waiting for the Kootenay River to be cleared of logs at Nelson before taking off from here.

360 FIRES RAGING

The four RCAF planes were joining the battle against 360 fires over a 250-mile belt across the southern interior with permission of Defence Minister Peakes who received a request from Premier Bennett.

Norman McRae, assistant forester for this district, said Thursday it is hoped that a B-17 Flying Fortress, damaged Monday, can join other aircraft in dropping sodium benzonite, a solution used in fighting oil well fires, shortly. Pits were being dug at the airstrip here to mix the chemical with water. Water-bombers were expected to drop about 40,000 gallons a day.

Most of the fires reported in the more than three-week battle in this parched area burned through stands of pine and spruce and some fir.

NO DAMAGE ESTIMATE

No estimate has been made of the total damage to trees.

One of the promised helicopters and one Otter will be assigned to the Kamloops forest district where 267 fires are burning. The second helicopter and the other Otter go to the adjoining Nelson district which had 31 new fires Thursday, 29 of them started by an electrical storm.

The planes will be used to ferry men and supplies into remote areas and to search out new outbreaks in the vast woodlands. The helicopters are expected to prove especially valuable in this work.

WHICH TO FIGHT?

Forestry officials now face a constant dilemma in deciding which blazes to attack with their limited forces.

Extreme heat Thursday kept both water bombers and a 200-man ground force from getting within striking distance of the 3,000-acre blaze near Lac Le Jeune, 30 miles south of here. But officials said the blaze, started by campers, remained within its guards.

Averger planes "bombed" a fire at Dot Lake, 40 miles south of Savona, with benzonite Thursday before it could reach dangerous proportions.

SPACE CAPSULE TEST FAILURE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An attempt to test an unmanned Project Mercury space capsule was wrecked today, apparently by an explosion in the Atlas booster rocket.

The capsule and the rocket assembly were thought to have sunk in the Atlantic off Cape Canaveral.

Major Change In Castro's Gov't Hinted

HAVANA (UPI)—A rapid-fire series of political developments following the illness of Premier Fidel Castro raised speculation today of major changes in Cuban policy and a shakeup of the Castro government.

These developments included a Cairo announcement that Raul Castro, brother of the premier, had cut short his visit to Cairo and was rushing back to Cuba; a decision by Foreign Minister Raul Roa to postpone a Sunday television address; and mounting criticism of the Venezuelan government.

There was only government silence here on Raul Castro's quick return but unconfirmed rumors said it was connected both with the organization of American States meeting in Costa Rica Aug. 15.

$1.7 Million In Fire Costs

B.C.'s forest fire situation today is "very critical" says the forest service.

The battle against 383 fires is near the desperate stage, and for the third straight week in these areas no weather relief is in sight.

Costs have soared more than $800,000 this week alone.

Since May 1, start of the fire season, the province has spent a total of $1,718,543 in fire fighting.

OAS Calls Meetings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Organization of American States voted unanimously today to convene two meetings of the 21 American foreign ministers at San Jose, Costa Rica, on Aug. 16 to consider Venezuelan, Dominican, and other problems in the Caribbean.

THREE STRICKEN IN 24 HOURS

Hand Pumps Save Life of Polio Victim

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF Dakota today brought the third polio patient from Prince George in the last 24 hours.

RCAF spokesmen said they did not know the identity of the latest patient.

Meanwhile, Vancouver General Hospital reports Mrs. Margaret Westergaard, 30, and Margaret Morrissey, 12, are in satisfactory condition. They were flown to Vancouver Thursday.

The electrical system of one of the iron lungs used in Friday night's mercy flight broke down just as the aircraft took off from Prince George. Two doctors, a nurse and an attendant had to operate a hand pump during the two-hour and 25-minute flight to keep one of the patients alive.

RAPE CHARGES FALSE SAYS CONGO LEADER

MONTREAL (UPI)—Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba today denied Belgian charges that white women were raped in his new African republic. He said the reports were fabricated by foreign newspapers.

He said his government had started an inquiry, headed by Belgian magistrates—because the Congo does not have any magistrates—and they failed to find "one case of rape."

'CONFIDENCE IN CANADA'

Lumumba Wants United Africa

MONTREAL (CP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo said today on arrival here that the aim of all Africans is the establishment of a United States of Africa.

He said the Congo wants to participate in African unity "to eliminate all artificial frontiers created by colonialism."

"We want real unity," he said at a press conference at Montreal's Dorval airport during which he said he came to Canada to request technical assistance from Canadians.

"We have confidence in Canada because it is not a colonial country and has no interest in Africa."

Lumumba, speaking in French, said his country needs technicians, doctors, nurses, pharmacists, construction engineers, electricians, agricultural specialists, specialists in information media, professors, teachers and magistrates.

The Congo, with 14,000,000 people, was a vast country with a plan to develop its natural resources. Lumumba said the troubles in his riot-torn country since the Congo obtained its independence July 1 were caused by Belgian colonial regime in the past.

Belgium had not prepared the Congo for independence and Congolese held no senior posts in the administration, the police or the army.

BELGIUM CUTS CONGO FORCES

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Belgian government, under pressure to withdraw all its military forces from the Congo, announced today about 1,500 troops will be brought home in the near future.

There are about 12,000 Belgian troops in the Congo.

MUNGO MARTIN'S TOTEM HITS PORTSMOUTH

Indians Scare Old Lady in Queue

By STEWART MACLEOD
PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (CP)
Fifteen full-blooded Canadian Indians "invaded" this

English seaport Thursday and some of the residents still are wondering what happened.

It's not that the Indians scalped anyone or shot up the city with arrows, but they clearly did the next worst thing. They fouled up the bus queues.

Running through the narrow streets of Portsmouth, waving their lances and feathers, the Indians delighted the thousands who knew what they came for. "It was the few who didn't know that were worst watching."

"Here," shouted an old lady,

as she jumped with fright from her spot in the bus queue, "they should get rid of this lot, they should."

The Indians, wearing the tribal costumes of nine Canadian nations, ran through the streets, upon sidewalks, in and out of buses, and occasionally stuck their painted faces in an open window.

The Indians came to Portsmouth with a 25-foot totem pole which was presented to HMS Excellent, a gunnery school on nearby Whale Island, by the Canadian Navy. It was in appreciation of the 50 years of instruction given to Canadian sailors at the school.

The totem pole was handed over to Capt. J. S. Dalglish, commanding officer of the school. But not before he was made a brave of the Sioux tribe.

The 15 Indians, all serving members of the Canadian Navy, came to Portsmouth on four destroyer-escorts, Gatineau, St. Croix, Terra Nova and Kootenay. They were led by Sub-Lt. Bill Sheard of Selkirk, Man., a Cree.

The totem pole, carved at Thunderbird Park by Mungo Martin, chief of the Kwakiutl, will be mounted on a piece of Nova Scotia granite, near the entrance to the gunnery school.

Nixon sez there's 10,000,000 floating voters. And m' uncle Zeke sez if they'd let Canadians in, it'd be 10,000,001.

My other uncle, Pud, sez if they cancel out racin' at Sandown at least he stands a chance o' breakin' even.

Forty consecutive days o' sunshine, the political conventions all over, and a chance to vote for Waldo. Smile! It's great to live in British Columbia!

It is Mr. Nixon's chief claim to the support of the American people that he has been carrying important responsibilities in Washington for nearly eight years. He has been given many duties in national affairs never entrusted to a previous vice-president, and he has taken an active and influential role in the work of the National Security Council. Thus he can argue with some plausibility that the nation would be continuing a responsible tradition if it placed him in the White House instead of making a violent break from the principles of the last eight years and handing over power to the new directives of Senator Kennedy.

To strengthen this impression of mature responsibility Mr. Nixon decided that he could have no better running mate than Mr. Lodge who has become a familiar figure to the American people because of his televised debates with the Russian delegation at the CHICAGO (AP) — Short covering gave a firm tone to wheat and soybeans but other grains on the board of trade continued under mild selling pressure today.

OVERFLOW ON FIRE ESCAPE

Chinese Bulge Police Court

City police court today was filled with Chinese for start of the trial of Lee Yon, charged with keeping a gaming house.

Civil Defence Zones Set For Province

B.C. today was split into six civil defence zones, each to have a director to co-ordinate organization in the event of an attack.

Victoria is one of the zones, but its director hasn't been named. An appointment is expected "shortly" said Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Nanaimo is headquarters of the western zone, with Harold C. Snider as director.

Retired Lieutenant-Colonel John Littlehales has been appointed Greater Vancouver's zone chief.

Other zones are east, north and central B.C.

"This move will mean more efficient provincial-wide civil defence organization," said Mr. Black, "and assure B.C. with a more direct link with headquarters."

They overflowed into the corridors and even on the fire escape at the courtroom's rear.

Const. Lorne Shandley, first witness in the case, testified that in company with other city policemen and detectives he entered premises at 561 Fisgard at 12:20 a.m. July 17 and through a door at the rear of the premises to 1628 Government.

Up the stairs on the "mezzanine" there were a number of Chinese, three mah jong tables and three paigno (Domino) tables.

The accused, he said, was sitting in a "slot" on the paigno table with a cash box in front of him. Both in and under the box was the sum of $42.15.

"GRAB MONEY"

Const. Shandley said he was "four or five" feet from the table before he was first noticed, and the Chinese attempted to "grab the money."

Trial of Lee Yon, who had earlier pleaded not guilty, was continuing. He is represented by George Gregory.

Meanwhile, 14 Chinese found-ins are also slated for trial.

Trial of Tommie Louie, also charged with keeping a gaming house, was adjourned to Oct. 7.

VERY FAIR INDEED and pleasant to see is Victoria's leading delegate to Seattle's Seafair parade Saturday morning. Packing for the trip today, Miss Victoria (Sherrin Molyard) will appear in the big parade with princesses Mona McConnell and Gina Hiscock and the Victoria Girls' Drill Team. Miss Molyard will return Sunday, while Miss McConnell carries on with official appearances. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

ON THE ROAD TO THE ISLES are 78 Scots, all members of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, who left Patricia Bay at 9:30 a.m. today aboard a TCA Super Constellation for Prestwick, Scotland. They will spend six weeks away before returning.

Olympic Fund Aid Asked Here

British Columbia's contribution to the Olympic Games fund is $2,000 shy of its $19,000 objective and the provincial government is being asked for the remaining sum.

Bob Osborne, of Vancouver, acting-secretary of the fund-raising B.C. Amateur Sports Council, says cities throughout B.C. have been giving generously.

Vancouver donated $4,000, left over from the British Empire Games here in 1954, and the provincial government added another $4,000.

Subscriptions from individuals, industry and other provincial cities have reached $9,000.

BSASC officials say, however, that few contributions have been received from private individuals in Victoria and city council recently turned down a request for a donation.

Meanwhile, the national committee announced in Montreal this week it is still $36,000 short of the $211,000 needed to take Canada's 124 athletes and officials to Rome.

The team leaves Montreal Aug. 17.

The Legislative Building fountain disgorged its own blithe spirit Thursday night—before interested police arrived.

Police reported a "female tourist" had been disporting in the lighted waters—dancing around on tip-toe.

She was clad in a negligee over a bathing suit and carried an umbrella.

A handful of interested tourists watched.

"She did it on a dare," said a friend afterwards, terming her an "extremely extroverted type of person."

Four-Lane Route To Pat Bay?

The provincial government plans to widen Patricia Bay Highway to four lanes, Ald. Millard Mooney hinted to city council Thursday.

A Social Credit member who unsuccessfully contested the party nominations here this week, he won council approval for a request to the highways department to avoid widening the highway on the west side where it skirts Elk Lake.

The Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee pointed out that the last time the highway was widened and relocated, 600 yards of public land along the lakeside was lost for bathing purposes.

"Do you know whether they plan to widen the highway on the lakeside?" asked Mayor Percy Scourrah.

"Well, you're putting me on the spot and I don't want to say," replied Ald. Mooney. "But I'm quite confident that we will see a four-lane highway in that area before very long."

40-Year Company Leaves in November

Forty years operation in Victoria will come to an end for Sidney Roofing and Paper Company on Nov. 30.

The remaining equipment, a machine which produces roofing felt and building paper, will be dismantled and transferred to the main Burnaby plant.

Future of the Sidney plant has not been determined by the parent company, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. The company is studying possible uses for the plant.

The decision to centralize Sidney operations at the 75-acre Burnaby plant was made early today when the parent company gave the green light to the move which will cost an estimated $500,000.

Esquimalt Voters Get Arena Plans

Thousands of pamphlets were mailed out to Esquimalt ratepayers Thursday explaining details of the $400,000 sports arena development that will be decided by a referendum Aug. 13.

The pamphlets said the arena, to be built beside Bullen Park if approved by voters, will give the municipality "the largest exhibition area under one roof in Greater Victoria."

The building would contain: a standard size hockey rink with seating for 1,750 persons; a concrete floor and modern ice surfacing and flooding equipment; a curling rink with six ice sheets and an observation lounge; snack bar; six rest rooms; locker rooms and change rooms; skate shop, and storage rooms.

"This sports centre will be for everybody," the pamphlets said. "No fee to join, no dues; simply pay as you play either singly or in groups for the following activities—public skating, hockey, curling, lacrosse, figure skating, fairs, dances and exhibitions."

Operations of the centre at no cost to taxpayers was assured, the pamphlets said.

MLA George Gregory today renewed his challenge to the Victoria Socreds to meet him in debate on campaign issues. The campaign is expected to start in the latter half of August, with polling day in mid-September.

Works Minister W. N. Chant and MLA Donald Smith Thursday said Mr. Gregory's challenge was calculated only to attract attention to his cause.

"We propose to have seats on the platform reserved for them at each one of our meetings in case they change their minds," Mr. Gregory said today.

Mr. Gregory said he wanted Victoria voters "to hear the election issues debated."

Move to Saanich Seen for Hydro

Head Office Building May Be Sold as City Hall

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

B.C. Hydro is considering selling its head office here and building new headquarters in Saanich, the Times learned today.

The Blanshard Street building may be offered to Victoria as a new City Hall.

B.C. Hydro officials wouldn't comment on either report today, but they have been actively studying their accommodation problem for several months.

Some 300 persons are employed at the head offices.

Besides the Blanshard building, four floors are rented in the Weiler Building on Government Street.

However, it is expected some of the $25,000,000 will go toward a new head office. A Saanich site would be cheaper and easier to obtain, as well as offering more space. Mayor Percy Scourrah today said he had been involved in no communications about the proposal to sell the Blanshard building to the city.

That site would, however, tie in with the general building up of the area into a government centre, with the new Law Courts across the street, possibility of an auditorium there eventually, and the provincial government offices nearby.

NO COMMENT

City officials are understood to be interested in the idea, although they haven't commented directly.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said the B.C. Hydro quarters are "inadequate."

He did not know what plans were for alleviating the situation.

If the city didn't buy the Blanshard Building, it is also being considered as a good site for expanding provincial government offices.

Hydro's lease on the Weiler Building will expire this year. It is understood the owners want a long-term agreement. This, coupled with lack of space and possibility of staff expansion for new Hydro projects is a major reason for considering a new headquarters.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Llewellyn Seddon, 15 Lotus, failing to set hand brake, $20.

Malcolm R. Tuohy, 1203 Blanshard, infraction of driver's licence restriction, $15.

FOR PEKING OPERA

Land-Sea-Air Festival Visit

A bus-boat-air lift to take Victorians to a performance of the Peking Opera at the Vancouver Festival on a special Victoria night, Aug. 12, has been organized.

The party will be led by Mayor Percy Scourrah and Mrs. Scourrah and members of the council have been invited to attend. The entire group will be met and greeted by Mayor Tom Alsbury of Vancouver and will be escorted to a specially reserved section of the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

The all-inclusive package deal has been organized by local members of the Vancouver Festival Society and includes transportation to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre via bus and government ferry, transportation to Vancouver International Airport and a return via TCA and bus to City Hall.

Dinner aboard the ferry would be included in the ticket, as would top-price tickets to the performance of the Peking Opera. Total cost for the evening's entertainment would be $15.75 with tickets available at Featherstone Travel Service Limited. Anyone wishing to attend with the group and who does not want to travel in the party may purchase tickets at Eaton's ticket office.

Mayor Scourrah selected the Peking Opera as the performance of his choice for a Victoria night. It is one of the most spectacular presentations of the entire Vancouver Festival in spite of the fact it has little to do with opera in the accepted sense. It comprises a performance of jugglers, dancers, magicians and acrobats in the finest tradition of the Chinese theatre and is an international favorite.

Recipe
—Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett said today Prime Minister Diefenbaker liked the recipe for the financial pie he presented at the recent Dominion-provincial conference.

He said on arrival here from the east, the conference marked a new British Columbia approach in federal-provincial discussions.

"We didn't ask for a thing. There's no use agreeing to divide a small pie. We must bake a large pie."

The province's recipe calls for more goods and services that Canada and the Americas can trade for a more prosperous future.

The premier announced he will blow out the candles on a birthday cake here Monday to mark the eighth birthday of the Social Credit government.

He said he will make no wish.

"We don't deal in wishful thinking. We deal only in dynamic action."

The premier, who attended the first day of a Social Credit meeting in Ottawa, said he was happy with party's strength in the east, particularly in Quebec, which had more paid-up party members than the rest of Canada put together.

'BEST MAN AVAILABLE'

Foreign Affairs Experience
Won Nomination for Lodge

By MAX FREEDMAN

Special to The Times

CHICAGO—Mr. Nixon chose Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations, as the vice-presidential candidate on the Republican ticket because he wanted the party in the election campaign to dramatize the issue of experience and responsibility in foreign affairs.

Senator Kennedy, the Democratic candidate for the presidency, is a man of vast knowledge in world affairs despite the gibes and jeers flung at him by former governor Dewey of New York. All the same Senator Kennedy is open to criticism because he has never borne any actual responsibility for carrying out a foreign policy program. His running mate Senator Johnson is somewhat of an amateur in foreign policy, almost never speaks on this subject in the Senate except to sound a call for national unity, and prefers to intone vague and specious generalities. The Democratic Party, however, has decided that it will concentrate on foreign policy in directing its indictment against the Republican ticket.

It is Mr. Nixon's chief claim to the support of the American people that he has been carrying important responsibilities in Washington for nearly eight years. He has been given many duties in national affairs never entrusted to a previous vice-president, and he has taken an active and influential role in the work of the National Security Council. Thus he can argue with some plausibility that the nation would be continuing a responsible tradition if it placed him in the White House instead of making a violent break from the principles of the last eight years and handing over power to the new directives of Senator Kennedy.

To strengthen this impression of mature responsibility Mr. Nixon decided that he could have no better running mate than Mr. Lodge who has become a familiar figure to the American people because of his televised debates with the Russian delegation at the

'To Roll Back
Red Frontiers'

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO (CP)—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has pledged to roll back the frontiers of world Communist aggression by launching a grand offensive against world poverty, misery and disease if he becomes president next November.

In a tough anti-Communist speech Thursday night winding up the four-day Republican national convention, the 47-year-old Nixon formally accepted in what he called "the greatest moment of my life" the Republican presidential nomination.

He welcomed aboard his "free world victory" ticket as a vice-presidential running mate Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations and symbol of American resistance to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's challenge to the free world.

Lodge's name was put in nomination quickly after the final session opened by former China medical missionary, Representative Walter Judd of Minnesota, the keynote speaker last Tuesday night, and it stayed there all alone.

Lodge got 1,330 out of the 1,331 votes on the first ballot. The lone holdout was Ed Maher of San Angelo, Tex., who abstained. Why? "Just say I'm hot," replied Maher, who then changed his mind and switched to Lodge.

Nixon, speaking for 50 minutes from notes, and Lodge both stressed the theme of foreign affairs in their acceptance speeches.

Nixon's freedom offensive would include a large-scale government reorganization to centralize all of the administration's foreign-aid programs, such as loans and grants, technical assistance and cultural exchanges, under the president's direct control.

"All these must be welded together into one powerful economic and ideological striking force under the direct supervision and leadership of the United States."

It would not be enough just to hold the line against communism, he said.

BULLETINS

Alberta Bank Bandit Sought in B.C.

CALGARY (CP)—RCMP in Alberta and British Columbia are looking for 21-year-old Peter Van Huizen, alias John Vermeer, in connection with the Wednesday robbery of the Blackie, Alta., branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. The robbery netted two men $10,500 at the small town 45 miles southeast of Calgary.

Riot, Burned Ballots in Korea Poll

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—Forty policemen were reported injured and ballot boxes were burned tonight in the southern port city of Samchonpo as vote counting began in Korea's nationwide parliamentary elections.

More than 2,000 persons, including students, marched on the Samchonpo city hall and burned the ballot boxes when early results gave a substantial lead to former Liberal Party Assemblyman Lee Jae Hyun.

Severe Quake Rocks Downtown Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI)—A severe earthquake shook downtown Tokyo buildings for several seconds at 2:35 p.m. today (Saturday).

There were no reports of casualties. However, the agency said a tidal wave might strike at Northern Honshu coastal areas.

Check Asked on U.S. Atomic Waste

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was asked this afternoon to give assurances that the United States will not be permitted to dump atomic wastes in Canadian coastal waters.

Trade Minister Churchill informed Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, that he would look into the matter.

Mr. Argue said a Boston firm licensed by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission to dump waste in the ocean is operating a plant at Nanaimo, B.C., which manufactures containers for waste disposal.

MUNGO MARTIN'S TOTEM HITS PORTSMOUTH

Indians Scare Old Lady in Queue

By STEWART MACLEOD
PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (CP)
Fifteen full-blooded Canadian

Indians "invaded" this English seaport Thursday and some of the residents still are wondering what happened.

It's not that the Indians scalped anyone or shot up the city with arrows, but they clearly did the next worst thing. They fouled up the bus queues.

Running through the narrow streets of Portsmouth, waving their lances and feathers, the Indians delighted the thousands who knew what they came for. It was the few who didn't know that were worst watching.

"Here," shouted an old lady,

as she jumped with fright from her spot in the bus queue, "they should get rid of this lot, they should."

The Indians, wearing the tribal costumes of nine Canadian nations, ran through the streets, upon sidewalks, in and out of buses, and occasionally stuck their painted faces in an open window.

The Indians came to Portsmouth with a 25-foot totem pole which was presented to HMS Excellent, a gunnery school on nearby Whale Island, by the Canadian Navy. It was in appreciation of the 50 years of instruction given to Canadian sailors at the school.

The totem pole was handed over to Capt. J. S. Dalglish, commanding officer of the school. But not before he was made a brave of the Sioux tribe.

The 15 Indians, all serving members of the Canadian Navy, came to Portsmouth on four destroyer-escorts, Gatineau, St. Croix, Terra Nova and Kootenay. They were led by Sub-Lt. Bill Sheaf of Selkirk, Man., a Cree.

The totem pole, carved at Thunderbird Park by Mungo Martin, chief of the Kwakiutl, will be mounted on a piece of Nova Scotia granite, near the entrance to the gunnery school.

Major Blaze
Jumps Guards

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Thirty-three trapped fire-fighters were rescued today by an RCAF helicopter.

The men were trapped when the 3,000-acre Lac Le Jeune forest fire, 30 miles south of here, jumped fire guards. No injuries were reported.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The men who are fighting the hundreds of forest fires in the interior of British Columbia were standing up better than their machines this week.

Forest service officials in the Kamloops district said today breakdowns of aircraft and bulldozers was hampering the dawn-to-dusk fight against fires.

Meanwhile one of two twin-rotor helicopters that were to be loaned to the forest service by the RCAF was still in Vancouver waiting for repairs. And one of two Otter amphibious planes was waiting for the Kootenay River to be cleared of logs at Nelson before taking off from here.

360 FIRES RAGING

The four RCAF planes were joining the battle against 360 fires over a 250-mile belt across the southern interior with permission of Defence Minister Peckham who received a request from Premier Bennett.

Norman McRae, assistant forester for this district, said Thursday it is hoped that a B-17 Flying Fortress, damaged Monday, can join other aircraft in dropping sodium benzonite, a solution used in fighting oil well fires, shortly. Pits were being dug at the airstrip here to mix the chemical with water. Water-bombers were expected to drop about 40,000 gallons a day.

NO DAMAGE ESTIMATE

No estimate has been made of the total damage to trees.

One of the promised helicopters and one Otter will be assigned to the Kamloops forest district where 267 fires are burning. The second helicopter and the other Otter go to the adjoining Nelson district which had 31 new fires Thursday. 29 of them started by an electrical storm.

Forestry officials now face a constant dilemma in deciding which blazes to attack with their limited forces.

Extreme heat Thursday kept both water bombers and a 200-man ground force from getting within striking distance of the 3,000-acre blaze near Lac Le Jeune, 30 miles south of here. But officials said the blaze, started by campers, remained within its guards.

Avenger planes bombed a fire at Dot Lake, 40 miles south of Savona, with benzonite Thursday before it could reach dangerous proportions.

SPACE CAPSULE
TEST FAILURE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An attempt to test an unmanned Project Mercury space capsule was wrecked today, apparently by an explosion in the Atlas booster rocket.

The capsule and the rocket assembly were thought to have sunk in the Atlantic off Cape Canaveral.

Major Change
In Castro's
Gov't Hinted

HAVANA (UPI)—A rapid-fire series of political developments following the illness of Premier Fidel Castro raised speculation today of major changes in Cuban policy and a shakeup of the Castro government.

These developments included a Cairo announcement that Raul Castro, brother of the premier, had cut short his visit to Cairo and was rushing back to Cuba; a decision by Foreign Minister Raul Roa to postpone a Sunday television address; and mounting criticism of the Venezuelan government.

There was only government silence here on Raul Castro's quick return but unconfirmed rumors said it was connected with the Organization of American States meeting in Costa Rica Aug. 15.

$1.7 Million
In Fire Costs

B.C.'s forest fire situation today is "very critical" says the forest service.

The battle against 383 fires is near the desperate stage, and for the third straight week in these areas no weather relief is in sight.

Costs have soared more than $800,000 this week alone.

Since May 1, start of the fire season, the province has spent a total of $1,718,543 in fire fighting.

Hand Pumps Save Life of Polio Victim

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCAF Dakota today brought the third polio patient from Prince George in the last 24 hours.

RCAF spokesmen said they did not know the identity of the latest patient.

Meanwhile, Vancouver General Hospital reports Mrs. Margaret Westgaard, 30, and Margaret Morrissey, 12, are in satisfactory condition. They were flown to Vancouver Thursday.

Law Court Bids Called

Contract for the completion of Victoria's new law courts will be awarded at the end of August, Works Minister W. N. Chant said today.

Tenders have been called for Aug. 24.

"A building that size will take a year or 18 months before you are ready to move in," said Mr. Chant.

"I expect occupancy before Christmas 1961—perhaps in the fall."

Petition Seeks To Rehire Crew

Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association decided Thursday night to circulate a petition in the municipality which will ask the municipal council to rehire its three-man public works crew.

Council did away with the department in favor of having public works done by contract. It claimed it took the action after a year of study, and that it was in the interests of the ratepayers.

Grant Of $1,500 For Water Mains

UCLUELET — Village commission here has learned the provincial cabinet has authorized a grant of $1,500 to the municipality toward the cost of repairing a water main damaged by tidal waves from the Chilean earthquakes a few weeks ago.

Source of the water is on the opposite side of the harbor. Tidal waves cracked the main on the harbor floor and it had to be replaced.

RAPE CHARGES FALSE SAYS CONGO LEADER

MONTREAL (UPI)—Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba today denied Belgian charges that white women were raped in his new African republic. He said the reports were fabricated by foreign newspapermen.

He said his government had started an inquiry, headed by Belgian magistrates—because the Congo does not have any magistrates—and they failed to find "one case of rape."

'CONFIDENCE IN CANADA'

Lumumba Wants United Africa

MONTREAL (CP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo said today on arrival here that the aim of all Africans is the establishment of a United States of Africa.

He said the Congo wants to participate in African unity "to eliminate all artificial frontiers created by colonialism."

"We want real unity," he said at a press conference at Montreal's Dorval airport during which he said he came to Canada to request technical assistance from Canadians.

"We have confidence in Canada because it is not a colonial country and has no interest in Africa."

Lumumba, speaking in French, said his country needs technicians, doctors, nurses, pharmacists, construction engineers, electricians, agricultural specialists, specialists in information media, professors, teachers and magistrates.

The Congo, with 14,000,000 people, was a vast country with a plan to develop its natural resources. Lumumba said the troubles in his riot-torn country since the Congo obtained its independence July 1 were caused by Belgian colonial regime in the past.

Belgium had not prepared the Congo for independence and Congolese held no senior posts in the administration, the police or the army.

BELGIUM CUTS CONGO FORCES

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Belgian government, under pressure to withdraw all its military forces from the Congo, announced today about 1,500 troops will be brought home in the near future.

There are about 12,000 Belgian troops in the Congo.

Jury Exhibition Planned

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley Art Group has started plans for a jury exhibition of paintings to be shown at the Arts and Crafts Centre here Oct. 6-13.

Entries may be of oil, water color, tempera, or mixed media. Prints and drawings also will be eligible.

The exhibition will be open to all professional and nonprofessional artists now living on Vancouver Island or the Gulf Islands, and those living elsewhere but who had at least two years of residence in the area.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood will open the show Oct. 6, and has agreed to act as honorary chairman.

All artists and are groups in the district concerned will be approached, and entry forms will be available shortly.

Well-known B.C. artists will be selected to choose paintings for the exhibition, which will be the first jury show to be held on Vancouver Island outside of Victoria.

Awards up to $100 and honorable mentions will be given at the discretion of the jury.

Mrs. F. Bottner, president of the art group, has said that if the venture is a success it will become an annual event.
